Motor System and Motor Diseases: From Molecules to Circuits Jing-Ning Zhu, Ying Shen, Paul G. Mermelstein, 2020-06-04 Movement is the basis for many forms of behaviors and is tightly controlled by a hierarchical system containing cerebral cortex basal ganglia cerebellum brainstem and spinal cord Each level of this hierarchy contributes to motor planning motor initiation motor execution and motor coordination respectively However they all receive continuous sensory inputs and generate accurate sensorimotor integrations that are necessary for both predictive and reflexive servo controls of movements The motor system contains various types of neurons with different morphological neurochemical and electrophysiological properties which are significantly dependent on many intracellular signaling molecules Interestingly these neurons are interconnected by intricate neuronal circuits for motor control and even interacted with other non motor systems to orchestrate somatic nonsomatic integration Furthermore synaptic and neural plasticity endows motor system with amazing abilities for not only motor learning but also compensation and recovery from motor diseases such as Parkinson's disease ataxias motion sickness and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis etc Therefore the motor system is of great importance for understanding information processing integrative function and neural plasticity of the central nervous system The aim of this Research Topic is to discuss the latest advances in our understanding of motor system motor control motor learning and motor diseases from molecular cellular synaptic circuit and behavioral levels especially in an integrative perspective

Brain vs Retina - Differences and Commonalities: The Role of Oxidative Stress in Neurodegenerative Diseases Jose Hurst, Sven Schnichels, Ritushree Kukreti, Sandra Kuehn, Abel Santamaria, 2023-06-15 Oxidative stress free radicals antioxidants when it comes to our health this topic is taking up more and more attention But what is oxidative stress how does it arise and what effects does it have on the most sensitive area of our body the neuronal tissue or the retina Many neurological diseases affecting the brain or the retina are associated with elevated levels of reactive oxygen species ROS High levels of ROS can cause damage to proteins nucleic acids lipids membranes and organelles such as mitochondria and can be caused not only by external stimuli but also by aging Most theories on the aging scenario assume that cumulative oxidative stress leads to mitochondrial changes mitochondrial dysfunction and oxidative damage Therefore it is not surprising that excess ROS is among others associated with the development of a variety of age related neuronal diseases including Alzheimer s and Parkinson s disease as well as retinal diseases diabetic retinopathy glaucoma and age related macular AMD degeneration The aim of this Research Topic is to answer open questions to combine already gained knowledge to close the gaps between ophthalmology and neurology when it comes to oxidative stress in order to understand the underlying pathways and derive innovative therapies It searches for the updates and new findings in both fields that answer the central question are the same cell types affected by oxidative stress in the same way in the brain and retina Experimental studies or patient studies that provide new insights are welcome as well as studies that investigate antioxidant therapies
