Quaternary Quaternary (quaternary) is a geological period that began about 2.6 million years ago and continues to the present. It is the most recent of the geological periods and is characterized by the presence of the human species, Homo sapiens, and the development of modern human culture. The Quaternary is divided into two main epochs: the Pleistocene and the Holocene. The Pleistocene is the period of the ice ages, characterized by the presence of large ice sheets and the extinction of many large mammals. The Holocene is the period of the present, characterized by the presence of modern human culture and the development of agriculture and civilization. The Quaternary is a period of great importance in the history of the Earth, as it is the period in which modern human culture developed and the Earth's climate has changed significantly.
