Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies Mark Shucksmith, David L. Brown, 2016-05-20 Rural societies around the world are changing in fundamental ways both at their own initiative and in response to external forces The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies examines the organisation and transformation of rural society in more developed regions of the world taking an interdisciplinary and problem focused approach Written by leading social scientists from many countries it addresses emerging issues and challenges in innovative and provocative ways to inform future policy This volume is organised around eight emerging social economic and environmental challenges Demographic change Economic transformations Food systems and land Environment and resources Changing configurations of gender and rural society Social and economic equality Social dynamics and institutional capacity Power and governance Cross cutting these challenges are the growing interdependence of rural and urban the rise in inequality within and between places the impact of fiscal crisis on rural societies neoliberalism power and agency and rural areas as potential sites of resistance The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies is required reading for anyone concerned with the future of rural areas

The Evolution of European Manufacturing Industries

Bolesław Domański, Grzegorz Micek, Robert Guzik, Krzysztof Gwosdz, Arkadiusz Kocaj, 2024-08-29 The book provides a picture of the increasing significance of Central Europe and especially Poland in global production networks discussing the underlying economic social and political factors The key question it answers is to what extent the growth of production and exports results in industrial upgrading towards the manufacturing of more sophisticated high value added products new technologies and the development of non production functions especially design and advanced service capabilities The book shows that Central European manufacturing no longer exhibits the typical features of production activities in the periphery in particular low density and diversity low productivity narrow specialisation in low value added activities and poor local linkages hence limited local value creation and value capture There is still dependence on foreign controlled enterprises in several sectors and limited product innovation which remains a major weakness Further the book assesses the social consequences of the ongoing development of manufacturing capabilities in Poland and its impact on employment conditions including the quality of jobs and level of wages The authors provide insight into relationships between globalisation processes place specific attributes and current economic policies and as such the book will be of interest to academics policy makers and other stakeholders interested in both peripheral economies and core countries and representing various international organisations dealing with economic transition and development

Green Superpowers Andrea Prontera, 2024-10-31 Fossil fuels have been key to major powers foreign policies for a long time In the context of the current global energy transition renewables and low carbon technologies are emerging as elements that can have a similarly important impact on twenty first century world politics Green Superpowers China the European Union and the United States in the Global Energy Transition offers an in depth comparative analysis of the green foreign energy policies and green power strategies of the three main international actors in this transformative process China the European Union and the United States These green superpowers alone account for about half of global carbon dioxide emissions which is the primary driver of climate change and they are frontrunners in the global race for promoting and deploying renewables and innovative low carbon technologies To analyse this changing landscape Prontera combines insights from international political economy comparative public policy international relations and energy policy scholarship The book develops an original framework for mapping and studying the green foreign energy policies and green power strategies of major international actors and applies this framework to shed light on the recent efforts of China the European Union and the US In doing so it illustrates the links between the domestic green approaches that these green superpowers are promoting and their external actions regarding renewables and low carbon technologies whilst drawing attention to the limits and potential of green power strategies in the transition away from fossil fuels and the struggles to address a mounting climate crisis

Media-State Relations and Social Media Tyler W. Wilson, 2024-11-15 This book updates scholarship related to media state relations for the social media age It presents a timely account of how states have engaged with the platforms that have spread around the world and the challenges that this presents Further it is positioned at a novel intersection between the Communications and International Relations disciplines so scholars and students of both fields will find value within it In particular the book explores the Four Theories of the Press s role as a seminal text within media state relations scholarship It reimagines the original models through a Neo Gramscian lens The four models contained within the book deepen the analytic power of the original and align these ideas with the complexity of social media Importantly this book presents original research findings on measuring and quantifying the social media state relationship as theorised by establishing and validating the new Order Index Scholars and students of the fields discussed within will find value in the theoretical models and the quantitative instrument developed to measure these models Of note is that the book contains the basis for using the Order Index in future research and highlights a new research future within this space

Land and Development in Indonesia John F McCarthy, 2017-03-09 Indonesia was founded on the ideal of the e Sovereignty of the People which suggests the pre eminence of people s rights to access use and control land to support their livelihoods Yet many questions remain unresolved How can the state ensure access to land for agriculture and housing while also supporting land acquisition for investment in industry and infrastructure What is to be done about indigenous rights Do registration and titling provide solutions Is the land reform agenda e legislated but never implementede still relevant How should the land questions affecting Indonesia s disappearing forests be resolved The contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago from large scale land acquisitions in Papua to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan Sulawesi and Sumatra What are the prospects for the e people s sovereignty in regard to land
