The Oxford Handbook of Social Media and Music Learning Janice L. Waldron, Stephanie Horsley, Kari K. Veblen, 2020-09-23 The rapid pace of technological change over the last decade particularly the rise of social media has deeply affected the ways in which we interact as individuals in groups and among institutions to the point that it is difficult to grasp what it would be like to lose access to this everyday aspect of modern life The Oxford Handbook of Social Media and Music Learning investigates the ways in which social media is now firmly engrained in all aspects of music education providing fascinating insights into the ways in which social media musical participation and musical learning are increasingly entwined In five sections of newly commissioned chapters a refreshing mix of junior and senior scholars tackle questions concerning the potential for formal and informal musical learning in a networked society Beginning with an overview of community identity and the new musical self through social media scholars explore intersections between digital musical and social constructs including the vernacular of born digital performance musical identity and projection and the expanding definition of musical empowerment The fifth section brings this handbook to full practical fruition featuring firsthand accounts of digital musicians students and teachers in the field The Oxford Handbook of Social Media and Music Learning opens up an international discussion of what it means to be a musical community member in an age of technologically mediated relationships that break down the limits of geographical cultural political and economic place Musical Creativities in Practice Pamela Burnard, 2012-03-22 This book explores the social and the cultural contexts in which creativity in music occurs It considers what constitutes creativity taking a cross cultural view of music and investigating creative processes far beyond just the classical music genre including electronic media popular music and improvised music The Routledge Companion to Teaching Music Composition in Schools Kirsty Devaney, Martin Fautley, Joana Grow, Annette Ziegenmeyer, 2023-08-18 The Routledge Companion to Teaching Music Composition in Schools International Perspectives offers a comprehensive overview of teaching composing from a wide range of countries around the world Addressing the current state of composition pedagogy from primary to secondary school levels and beyond the volume explores issues including different curricular and extracurricular settings cultural aspects of composing aesthetics musical creativity the role of technology and assessment With contributors from over 30 countries this volume encompasses theoretical historical empirical and practical approaches and enables comparisons across different countries and regions Chapters by experienced educators composers and researchers describe in depth the practices taking place in different international locations Interspersed with these chapters interludes by the volume editors contextualize and problematize the teaching and learning of composing music The volume covers a range of contexts including formal and informal those where a national curriculum is mandated or where composing is a matter of choice and a range of types styles and genres of musical learning and music making Providing a wide ranging and detailed review of international approaches to incorporating music composition in teaching and learning this volume will be a useful resource for teachers music education researchers graduate and undergraduate students and all those working with children and young people in composing music The Child as Musician Gary E. McPherson, 2015-09-24 The new edition of The Child as Musician A Handbook of Musical Development celebrates the richness and diversity of the many different ways in which children can engage in and interact with music It presents theory both cutting edge and classic in an accessible way for readers by surveying research concerned with the development and acquisition of musical skills The focus is on musical development from conception to late adolescences although the bulk of the coverage concentrates on the period when children are able to begin formal music instruction from around age 3 until the final year of formal schooling around age 18. There are many conceptions of how musical development might take place just as there are for other disciplines and areas of human potential. Consequently the publication highlights the diversity in current literature dealing with how we think about and conceptualise children's musical development. Each of the authors has searched for a better and more effective way to explain in their own words and according to their own perspective the remarkable ways in which children engage with music. In the field of educational psychology there are a number of publications that survey the issues surrounding child and adolescent development. Some of the more innovative present research and theories and their educational implications in a style that stresses the fundamental interplay among the biological, environmental, social and cultural influences at each stage of a child's development. Until now no similar overview has existed for child and adolescent development in the field of music. The Child as Musician addresses this imbalance and is essential for those in the fields of child development, music education and music cognition.

Educational Change and the Secondary School Music Curriculum in Aotearoa New Zealand

Graham McPhail, Vicki Thorpe, Stuart Wise, 2018-02-13

Educational Change and the Secondary School Music Curriculum in Aotearoa New Zealand provides a fascinating case study in educational change. The music curriculum has been greatly affected by deep cultural and economic forces such as the growth of popular music's importance in young people's lives by demands for inclusive and multicultural education and not least by advances in technology that promise to invigorate all aspects of teaching and learning. This book brings together the work of a number of leading music education scholars and teachers from Aotearoa New Zealand to both explore these issues and to share case studies of practice both the positive changes and the unintended consequences. Each chapter focuses on a current issue in music education and the final chapter contains responses from a number of practitioners to the issues raised by the authors drawing together the practical and theoretical dimensions of the book.
