Musicians From A Different Shore Asians And Asian Americans In Classical Music:

Musicians from a Different Shore Mari Yoshihara, 2008-05-02 Musicians of Asian descent enjoy unprecedented prominence in concert halls conservatories and classical music performance competitions In the first book on the subject Mari Yoshihara looks into the reasons for this phenomenon starting with her own experience of learning to play piano in Japan at the age of three Yoshihara shows how a confluence of culture politics and commerce after the war made classical music a staple in middle class households established Yamaha as the world s largest producer of pianos and gave the Suzuki method of music training an international clientele Soon talented musicians from Japan China and South Korea were flocking to the United States to study and establish careers and Asian American families were enrolling toddlers in music classes Against this historical backdrop Yoshihara interviews Asian and Asian American musicians such as Cho Liang Lin Margaret Leng Tan Kent Nagano who have taken various routes into classical music careers They offer their views about the connections of race and culture and discuss whether the music is really as universal as many claim it to be Their personal histories and Yoshihara s observations present a snapshot of today s dynamic and revived classical music scene

Philosophical and Cultural Theories of Music Eduardo De La Fuente, Peter Murphy, 2010 This collection brings together philosophers sociologists musicologists and students of culture who theorize music through cultural practices as diverse as opera and classical music jazz and pop avant garde and DIY musical cultures music festivals and isolated listening through the iPod rock in urban heritage and the piano in East Asia East Asian Voices of Resistance Against Racism in Music Ken Ueno, Maiko Kawabata, 2025-03-18 The negative racialization of East Asian musicians in Western classical music manifests through tropes of othering such as Yellow Peril Orientalism and various harmful stereotypes This volume centers East Asian voices in collaboration with our allies as narrators of our own racialized experiences in music Featuring eleven contributions in a mixture of tone that is academic and personal or reflective thus deliberately disrupting conventional linguistic norms the volume brings together our voices in a creative act of resistance against racism in music and in solidarity with activism that targets inequalities in the arts more broadly The volume is to our knowledge the first of its kind Intended for musicians and artists academics and students it will dynamize topical conversations circling around issues of equality diversity and inclusion so as to contribute towards positive change Asian Americans Xiaojian Zhao, Edward J.W. Transnational Musicians Beata M. Kowalczyk, 2020-12-29 Informed by theories pertaining to transnational mobility ethnicity and race gender postcolonialism as well as Japanese studies Transnational Musicians explores the way Japanese musicians establish their transnational careers in the hierarchically structured classical music world Drawing on rich material from multi sited fieldwork and in depth interviews with Japanese artists in Japan France and Poland this study portrays the structurally and individually conditioned opportunities and constraints of becoming a transnational classical musician It shows how transnational artists strive to conciliate the irreconcilable their professional identification with the dominant image of rootless classical musicianship and their ethnocultural affiliation with Japan As such this book critically engages with the neoliberal discourse on talent and meritocracy prevailing in the creative cultural industry which promotes the common image of cosmopolitan artists whose high universal skills allow them to carry out their occupational activity internationally regardless of such prescriptive criteria as gender ethnicity and race Highly interdisciplinary this book will appeal to students and researchers interested in such fields as migration transnational mobility ethnicity and race in the creative cultural sector gender studies Japanese culture and other related social issues It will also be instructive for professionals from the world of classical music as well as ordinary readers passionate about Japanese society

Sounding Our Way Home Susan Miyo Asai, 2024-01-18 A product of twenty five years of archival and primary research Sounding Our Way Home Japanese American Musicking and the Politics of Identity narrates the efforts of three generations of Japanese Americans to reach home through musicking Using ethnomusicology as a lens

Susan Miyo Asai examines the musical choices of a population that historically is considered outside the racial and ethnic boundaries of American citizenship. Emphasizing the notion of national identity and belonging, the volume provokes a discussion about the challenges of nation building in a democratic society. Asai addresses the politics of music, interrogating the ways musicking functions as a performance of social, cultural, and political identification for Japanese Americans in the United States. Musicking is an inherently political act at the intersection of music, identity, and politics, particularly if it involves expressing one's ethnicity and/or race. Asai further investigates how Japanese American ethnic identification and cultural practices relate to national belonging. Musicking cultivates a narrative of a shared history and aesthetic between performers and listeners. The discourse situates not only Japanese Americans but all Asians into the Black/white binary of race relations in the United States. Sounding Our Way Home contributes to the ongoing struggle for acceptance and equal representation for people of color in the US. A history of Japanese American musicking across three generations, the book unveils the social and political discrimination that nonwhite immigrants and their offspring continue to face when it comes to finding acceptance in US society and culture. Asian Music, 2009.
