Muslims Of Europe Muslims Of Europe:

The Oxford Handbook of European Islam Jocelyne Cesari, 2015 For centuries Muslim countries and Europe have engaged one another through theological dialogues diplomatic missions political rivalries and power struggles In the last thirty years due in large part to globalization and migration from Islamic countries to the West what was previously an engagement across national and cultural boundaries has increasingly become an internalized encounter within Europe itself Questions of the Hijab in schools freedom of expression in the wake of the Danish Cartoon crisis and the role of Shari'a have come to the forefront of contemporary European discourse The Oxford Handbook of European Islam is the first collection to present a comprehensive approach to the multiple and changing ways Islam has been studied across European countries Parts one to three address the state of knowledge of Islam and Muslims within a selection of European countries while presenting a critical view of the most up to date data specific to each country These chapters analyze the immigration cycles and policies related to the presence of Muslims tackling issues such as discrimination post colonial identity adaptation and assimilation The thematic chapters in parts four and five examine secularism radicalization Shari'a Hijab and Islamophobia with the goal of synthesizing different national discussions into a more comparative theoretical framework The Handbook attempts to balance cutting edge assessment with the knowledge that the content itself will eventually be superseded by events Featuring eighteen newly commissioned essays by noted scholars in the field this volume will provide an excellent resource for students and scholars interested in European Studies immigration Islamic studies and the sociology of religion

Islam and Muslims in Europe Yehuda Cohen, 2018 The main subject of this book concerns the Muslim immigrants in Europe It includes the entire history of Islam vis a vis Europe since the 7th century prescribing useful dos and don'ts for current European policymakers Europeans have developed negative predispositions toward Muslims sometimes even distinctly perceiving them as foes The British greatly value the recollection of their glorious erstwhile empire thus when it broke up they enabled former subjects of the Crown to settle in the UK as if to build a miniature duplicate of their empire within Britain's borders Hence the British did not perceive former colonies Muslim immigrants as foes unlike continental Europeans but as British subjects Generally Europeans intend to fill the individual Muslim immigrants' needs as a citizen according to the liberal approach The expectation however is that Muslims as a group would become culturally integrated within the absorbing society That approach bewilders the European Muslims Many Muslim immigrants experience discrimination in Europe The continental European approach toward Muslims stemming from prejudice and fear made some immigrants aggressive The main divergence between European society and Muslim immigrants is due foremost to certain collective memories of the native Europeans That insight is elucidated by comparing European and American societies The American found in a country built by immigrants tends to adapt to a variety of new immigrants Muslims included Conversely European society is fundamentally incapable of truly incorporating immigrant culture and practices which it perceives as a threat especially concerning Islam It is therefore the Europeans who hold the key to alter the destructive dynamics not the Muslims Muslims and Arabs within their countries suffer the frustration of remembering their Golden Age when the Europeans were deeply mired in the Middle Ages Nowadays the Arabs and Muslims have not been able to lift themselves back to their former state That frustration may be compared to the German frustration in the 1920s being split up into distinct German states the consequence of which was the mass destruction of the European Jewish population The splitting of the Germans while suffering from lack of one uniting national myth had brought on the adoption of a German race theory which Adolf Hitler offered to the Germans and had led to the Holocaust Frustration may turn people rather aggressive and Iran or some Arabs like the members of ISIS aided by Muslims in Europe might end up using weapons of mass destruction against Europe The case of ISIS is therefore elaborated upon in detail in this book The successful integration of the Muslims in Europe may help somewhat indeed this book aims to promote such an accomplishment The French approach is uniquely rather rigid towards Muslim immigrants as a group and individually Hence there is no mental confusion among Muslims there and a significant portion of the Muslims in France see themselves as French better integrated than other Muslims in Europe The best policy the Continental Europeans may adopt is the French approach Muslims in Europe Paul Statham, Jean Tillie, 2018-10-18 Atrocities by terrorists acting in the name of the Islamic State are occurring with increasing regularity across Western Europe Often the perpetrators are home grown which places the relationship between Muslims and the countries in which they live under intense political and media scrutiny and raises questions about the success of the integration of Muslims of migrant origin At the same time populist politicians try to shift the blame from the few perpetrators to the supposed characteristics of all Muslims as a group by depicting Islam as a threat that seeks to undermine liberal democratic values and institutions The research in this volume attempts to redress the balance by focusing on the views and life experiences of the many ordinary Muslims in their European societies of settlement and the role that cultural and religious factors play in shaping their social relationships with majority populations and public institutions The book is specifically interested in the relationship between cultural religious distance and social factors that shape the life chances of Muslims relative to the majority The study is cross national comparative across the six main receiving countries with distinct approaches to the accommodation of Muslims France Germany Britain the Netherlands Belgium and Switzerland The research is based on the findings of a survey of four groups of Muslims from distinct countries of origin Turkey Morocco the former Yugoslavia and Pakistan as well as majority populations in each of the receiving countries This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies Muslims in Europe Jamal Malik, 2004 This volume embodies an up to date and sensitive set of studies exploring the ongoing negotiation of European Muslim identities in Europe The book argues there has been hitherto a three fold response on the part of Muslims in Europe some of whom are now third generation Europeans integrationism isolationism and escapism Today the latter two responses are giving way it is argued to an active shaping of Muslim European identities The central issue remains what degree of freedom and what potential for cultural and religious diversity can minorities have in an outwardly secular and plural European society

Muslim Communities in the New Europe Gerd Nonneman, Tim Niblock, Bogdan Szajkowski, 1997 Examines the evolving fate of Europe's Muslims comparing the status role and perceptions of these communities across Eastern and Western Europe following the demise of Communist authoritarianism

Muslims at the Margins of Europe Tuomas Martikainen, José Mapril, Adil Hussain Khan, 2019-07-29 This volume focuses on Muslims in Finland Greece Ireland and Portugal representing the four corners of the European Union today It highlights how Muslim experiences can be understood in relation to a country's particular historical routes political economies colonial and post colonial legacies as well as other factors such as church state relations the role of secularism's and urbanisation This volume also reveals the incongruous nature of the fact that national particularities shaping European Muslim experiences cannot be understood independently of European and indeed global dynamics This makes it even more important to consider every national context when analysing patterns in European Islam especially those that have yet to be fully elaborated The chapters in this volume demonstrate the contradictory dynamics of European Muslim contexts that are simultaneously distinct yet similar to the now familiar ones of Western Europe's most populous countries

Exploring the Multitude of Muslims in Europe, 2018-03-12 In Exploring the Multitude of Muslims in Europe a number of friends and colleagues of Jorgen S Nielsen have joined together to celebrate his life and work by reflecting his more than forty years of scholarly contributions to the study of Islam and Muslims in Europe. The fourteen articles move through conceptualisations, productions and explorations of the multitudes of Muslims in Europe and the authors draw on Jørgen S. The interchange between Muslims and Europe has a long and complicated history dating back to before the idea of Europe was born and the earliest years of Islam. There has been a Muslim presence on the European continent before, but never has it been so significant, particularly in Western Europe. With more Muslims in Europe than in many countries of the Muslim world, they have found themselves in the position of challenging what it means to be a European in a secular society of the 21st century. At the same time, the European context has caused many Muslims to re-think what is essential to them in religious terms in their new reality. In this work, H. A. Hellyer analyses the prospects for a European future where pluralism is accepted within unified societies and the presence of a Muslim community that is of Europe, not simply in it. The Muslim Brothers in Europe Brigitte Maréchal, 2008-09-30. This volume provides an overview on the history of the Muslim Brotherhood and the ways its heritage is appropriated by its European members today. They define themselves as the community of the middle way in the centre of

Islamic orthodoxy proposing an ethos and an ideology However their heritage is composed of many different intellectual strata and these inputs are in tension The current movement is both powerful and fragile as certain fundamental principles remain respected while many other themes are currently being cautiously questioned By analysing private interviews and public discourse this book fills in an important gap in scholarly research No other in depth study exists about this little known and reserved but important reference for European Muslims Islam in Europe Robert J. Pauly,Jr.,2016-05-06 In this timely work Robert J Pauly Jr looks in detail at the impact of Islam s presence in Europe He examines five areas of particular importance the effect of the growth of Muslim communities on the demographics of Western Europe generally and France Germany and the United Kingdom in particular the consequences of the marginalization of Muslims on domestic and international security within and outside of Western Europe in the post 11 September 2001 era the impact of the issue of Islam in Europe on the European Union s ongoing deepening and widening processes the potential correlation between the increased visibility of Islam in Europe and the growth of far right political parties across the continent and the broader relationships between the issues of Islam in Europe Islam and Europe and Islam and the West Muslims in Western Europe Jørgen S. Nielsen,1995 Nielsen describes the history of early European Muslims and outlines the causes and courses of twentieth century Muslim immigration Explaining how Muslim communities have developed in individual countries the book examines their origins their present day ethnic composition organizational patterns and the political legal and cultural contexts in which they exist The book also provides a comparative consideration of issues common to Muslims in all Western European countries namely the role of the family and questions of worship education and religious thought In the third edition all country related chapters have been substantially updated A new chapter has also been added on southern Europe where the maturity of a new generation has seen moves toward political integration Muslims in Europe Manfred Wolf,2017-08-25 This book probes questions and gives provocative answers for one of the crucial issues of our time Are two cultures ever incompatible in one society In a series of essays spanning more than a decade Manfred Wolf examines the topic of Muslims in Europe exploring various aspects of the subject including cultural affinities or their absence several approaches to handling immigration the roots of radicalization and terrorism and the assimilation of Muslims in Europe versus the United States From Elusive Affinities Assimilation is always hardest when the culture of origin differs radically from the culture of the new society Arab cultures of the Middle East and North Africa revolve around a kind of Islam induced authoritarianism an absolutist impulse which the new country sets itself against Certain standardsdeference to parents obedience to government respect for forceare in those parts of the world accepted almost without question while European cultures encourage their citizens to question them The newcomer especially if hes young mistakes this seeming laxness for total permissiveness an absence of all standards and is almost surprised when the host culture clamps down and jails him for a criminal offense European culture seems amorphous without clear values and beliefs Freedom looks like the absence of morality Since so few absolute standards obtain why shouldnt you grope and fondle women at a public celebration especially when theyre so provocatively dressed This disaffinity between the two cultures makes assimilation extraordinarily difficult especially since assimilation entails accepting the morals the norms the mores of the new culture Genuine multiculturalism is an abstraction one culture has to dominate

Islam in Inter-war Europe Nathalie Clayer, Eric Germain, 2008 Providing the status of Islam in inter war Europe this book states that the Muslim population of Europe in the period from 1918 1939 was not one of isolated islands of belief and practice It suggests that rather there was far more interaction between Muslim communities than had hitherto been imagined
