Act Practice Deal Customer Service:

Customer Service Intelligence Merilynn Van Der Wagen, 2007-11-02 Customer Service Intelligence uses a wide range of management and educational theories to provide different approaches that can be incorporated as part of the customer service trainer's toolkit. Concepts such as emotional intelligence, behaviour modification, role modelling, dimensions of procedure and conviviality, expectancy theory, socio-cultural concepts of service, community customer service as dynamic object in activity theory, Zen mindfulness all form the basis of training design in different contexts. Some trainers are dealing with new employees in fast food environments, others are retraining engineers in customer service provision as part of a strategic marketing initiative. This book enables the trainer to review the context for training and select the most appropriate approach to take. The training design is thus carefully thought through for maximum impact on the audience. Professionalism in customer service training is essential for the growth of many industries. This complex and challenging task is assisted by these perspectives, recommendations and case studies.

Cyber Consumer Law and Unfair Trading Practices Cristina Coteanu, 2017-03-02 Of great interest to practitioners, policymakers and academics as well as to consumers and traders in general, this timely work addresses all important legal and practical issues that arise in connection with online trading. This important work outlines the existing legislation and legal jurisprudence in the EU and the US and exposes the potential for unfair commercial practices to arise from online contracts, electronic agents, disclosure of information, online advertising and online dispute resolution in cross-border transactions. The continuing prevalence of unfair commercial practices will ensure this book remains in great demand.
