Ho, Sang-bin Yi, 2004 The essential premise of this book is that theory and practice are equally important in describing financial modeling In it the authors try to strike a balance in their discussions between theories that provide foundations for financial models and the institutional details that provide the context for applications of the models The book presents the financial models of stock and bond options exotic options investment grade and high yield bonds convertible bonds mortgage backed securities liabilities of financial institutions the business model and the corporate model It also describes the applications of the models to corporate finance Furthermore it relates the models to financial statements risk management for an enterprise and asset liability management with illiquid instruments The financial models are progressively presented from option pricing in the securities markets to firm valuation in corporate finance following a format to emphasize the three aspects of a model the set of assumptions the model specification and the model applications Generally financial modeling books segment the world of finance as investments financial institutions corporate finance and securities analysis and in so doing they rarely emphasize the relationships between the subjects This unique book successfully ties the thought processes and applications of the financial models together and describes them as one process that provides business solutions Created as a companion website to the book readers can visit www.thomasho.com to gain deeper understanding of the book s financial models Interested readers can build and test the models described in the book using Excel and they can submit their models to the site Readers can also use the site s forum to discuss the models and can browse server based models to gain insights into the applications of the models For those using the book in meetings or class settings the site provides Power Point descriptions of the chapters Students can use available question banks on the chapters for studying

How To Save Money Hamilton Blanza, 2018-10-17 Some people I just don't have money while others have money full to the brim. What is the mind that makes some people have money while others just don't do it? How to convert from a person who can't have money into a person who can boast of saving money is just as much an art form as a thing to do. You're with a person who can save money, but your personality is not the best. You're not sure how to save money, but surely you can save money. The brain is like any other body part and it can be trained to become good at something. For example, you don't know how to diet, but you don't know how to drive a car in the first place. The kitchen started small and it's a very important mindset. It's not about making huge savings all the time, but it's about adopting a small, consistent habit. Every little bit counts. This principle is the most important thing to remember when saving money. Learning from that 100 that you put in your saving account will not be the trick, especially if you are not a money person. Making a habit of saving a small amount of money will help you build a habit which would transform into a big result over a period of time. You have to train your brain to save money, and like anything else in life, you have to train your mind to learn from your mistakes and persevere to make saving a habit and part of your life. It's a fruitful result. I'm sure with the introduction of this book, you will have an idea of the core message that will be communicated to you.
