Researching Subtitling Processes Anke Radinger, 2025-07-31 Subtitling is almost as old as the motion picture itself. It is a very specific form of translation that goes well beyond the transferring of written texts given that the source text the film is a complex combination of spoken and written text together with dynamic images, music, and sounds. But how does one read a film in order to translate it? In this volume, Anke Radinger investigates what happens in a subtitler's mind, especially in various working environments. An example of one of these conditions is the introduction of innovative assistive language tools such as AI-powered speech-to-text into traditional subtitling workflows. Using methods like eye tracking and keylogging, Radinger reviews computer or rather AI-assisted subtitling processes, practices, and workflows while concentrating on aspects such as effort and quality. Her work is a valuable contribution to subtitling process research, a young and greatly under-researched subfield of audiovisual translation.

The Simple Guide to Home Electronics, 2017 Mark Schutte, 2017-05-26 The Simple Guide to Home Electronics helps the average person navigate the bewildering array of choices in the ever-changing world of home electronics that impact our day-to-day lives. A wide variety of topics from lightbulbs to the Internet of Things (IoT) are explained without all the tech-savvy jargon. Each chapter begins with a general overview and practical advice, followed by more in-depth information that will give you an understanding of the type of products available and how they work. If you have ever considered disconnecting your cable TV, a smart thermostat, or turning on the lights with a voice-activated product, then this book is for you. The author's light conversational style, along with his own engaging stories, humor, and points of view, make these complex topics easy to understand. The information is presented in free-standing, independent chapters that can be referenced over and over again as you replace and update the technology in your home.
