Block Grants and the Intergovernmental System United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Economic Goals and Intergovernmental Policy,1981 Education for Development or Underdevelopment? M.K. Bacchus,2010-12-01 How critical is education in the development struggle of a third world country Responding to popular demands for more accessible education the Guyanese government instituted numerous educational reforms hoping to promote economic growth in both the modern and the traditional sectors of the economy Many in the traditional sector however saw education as a means of economic advancement and sought increasingly to move into higher social strata through employment in the modern sector Consequently the civil service and private firms gained an oversupply of personnel while agriculture and small business suffered and unemployment increased The author examines Guyana s educational system from historical political social and economic perspectives and draws implications for other developing countries
