Advances in Fibre Production Science in South American Camelids and other Fibre Animals Martina Gerken, Carlo Renieri, Daniel Allain, Hugh Galbraith, Juan Pablo Gutiérrez, Lisa McKenna, Roman Niznikowski, Maria Wurzinger, 2019 Animal fibres from South American camelids and other fibre or wool bearing species provide important products for use by the human population. The contemporary context includes the competition with petrocarbon based artificial fibres and concern about excessive persistence of these in the natural environment. Animal fibres present highly valuable characteristics for sustainable production and processing as they are both natural and renewable. On the other hand their use is recognised to depend on availability of appropriate quality and quantity the production of which is underpinned by a range of sciences and processes which support development to meet market requirements. This collection of papers combines international experience from South and North America, China and Europe. The focus lies on domestic South American camelids alpacas llamas and also includes research on sheep and goats. It considers latest advances in sustainable development under climate change, breeding and genetics, reproduction and pathology, nutrition, meat and fibre production and fibre metrology. Publication of this book is supported by the Animal Fibre Working Group of the European Federation of Animal Science (EAAP). Advances in Fibre Production Science in South American Camelids and other Fibre Animals addresses issues of importance to scientists and animal breeders, textile processors and manufacturers, specialised governmental policy makers and students studying veterinary animal and applied biological sciences. Veterinary Parasitology Reference Manual William J. This book provides comprehensive knowledge on diseases in livestock that are caused by viruses, parasites and bacteria. Emerging and re-emerging pathogens are presented in detail for various animal groups and in-depth insights into pathogenesis and epidemiology will be provided for each of them. In addition, state of the art treatment possibilities, control measures as well as vaccination strategies are discussed. The recent years have witnessed a sharp increase in the number of emerging and re-emerging infectious diseases of livestock and many of these including Influenza, Corona and Hanta are of public health importance. The reasons for this development are manifold: changes in the climate, life cycle of vectors and increased global travel. Also due to extensive deforestation, livestock are increasingly coming in direct contact with wild animals that are reservoirs of many emerging pathogens Recent progress in diagnosis and management of emerging infectious diseases are also topic of this book
