Groundbreakers Elizabeth McKenna, Hahrie Han, 2014 Accounts of the 2008 and 2012 presidential campaigns have documented widely the technological innovations made in data analytics and social media that have transformed fundraising and voter outreach but they have failed to account for the unprecedented and dramatic increase in the numbers of people who volunteered for Obama for America Han and McKenna argue that presidential campaigns are still about more than clicks big data and money they are about boots on the ground and cultivating leaders The organizational legacies of OFA will transform political campaigns for the foreseeable future with some of the most traditional ideas of community organizing

Competence in Interpersonal Conflict William R. Cupach, Daniel J. Canary, Brian H. Spitzberg, 2009-11-06 Extensively updated with expanded and newly added chapters the second edition of Competence in Interpersonal Conflict continues to present a conceptual framework for why communication competence is central to conflict management Although no checklist of communication behaviors can guarantee success the authors offer constructive guidelines that provide a basis for grappling with future conflicts in five unique settings intercultural organizational familial mediation and violence in intimate relationships Within any conflict interaction adept communicators embrace the notion that adopting an ethical stance is both desirable and practical Conflict between people is a natural feature of the human condition when people interact and form relationships conflicts inevitably emerge How individuals manage conflict and how they perceive both the opportunities and challenges it provides will define their interpersonal relationships in more ways than any other kind of interaction behavior Collaboration and adaptation are the hallmarks of a competent communicator therefore how partners communicate during conflict can be more important than the frequency of their disagreements
