Astrophysics in the Extreme Ultraviolet Stuart Bowyer,Roger F. Malina,2012-12-06 From the beginning of Space Astronomy the Extreme Ultraviolet band of the spectrum roughly defined as the decade in energy from 90

900 was deemed to be the unobservable ultraviolet Pioneering results from an EUV telescope on the Apollo Soyuz Mission in 1975 forcibly demonstrated that this view was incorrect but it required the all sky surveys of the English Wide Field Camera and the Extreme Ultraviolet Explorer to demonstrate the broad potential of this field Over 700 EUV sources have now been detected Over 150 researchers from 16 countries gathered to share results in this new field at the International Astronomical Union Colloquium No 152 Papers were presented on a wide variety of topics including cool star coronae white dwarf atmospheres and evolution neutron stars the Io torus cataclysmic variable stars active galactic nuclei the interstellar medium winds and atmospheres of early type stars and EUV plasma diagnostics Selected manuscripts from this meeting are provided in these Conference Proceedings cryptographic solutions and the legal and ethical implications of biometric data collection also form a critical part of the narrative. However, as with any new technology, the adoption of internet voting with biometrics comes with its set of challenges. Privacy concerns, data protection regulations, the risk of cyberattacks, and the digital divide all require careful consideration and a thoughtful approach to ensure the success of such systems. This book addresses these concerns head on, providing a balanced view of the promises and pitfalls of this transformative technology. As we venture into this brave new world of digital democracy, the insights offered in Secure Online Voting Using Biometric Authentication and Public Key Encryption are invaluable for policymakers, technology developers, security experts, and anyone interested in the future of democratic participation. It not only illuminates the technical possibilities but also explores the broader implications of this technology, offering a road map for the future of democratic elections in the digital age.

Critical comparison of major seismic codes for buildings fib Fédération internationale du béton, 2013-01-01 fib Bulletin 69 illustrates and compares major buildings seismic codes applied in the different Continents namely U S Japan New Zealand Europe Canada Chile and Mexico. Bulletin 69 was prepared by Task Group 7.6 of fib Commission 7 under the leadership of the late Professor Robert Bob Park, which in tandem with Professor Paulay had developed in the seventies new fundamental design concepts, most notably capacity design approach and structural design for ductility that had made the NZ seismic Code the most advanced one of the time. This new approach has highly influenced the development of Eurocode 8, to which Bob Park has significantly contributed. Bob Park was also well informed of the situation in Japan, USA, Canada, and South America. Such a wide view is reflected in Bulletin 69, showing similarities and differences among the major seismic codes, accompanied as far as possible by comments hopefully useful for fostering international harmonization. A comprehensive summary of the major codes is provided in the first chapter of the bulletin. All codes are separately presented according to a common framework: an introduction section which describes the history, the philosophy, the process, development, the performance based criteria, the strength of materials, and the incorporation of strength reduction factors of each code; a second section devoted to the demand side which specifies the seismic design actions and associated criteria of each code for areas of different seismicity and for structures with different ductility properties requirements; a third section devoted to the capacity side which describes the capacities of members and joints and associated criteria of each code, including member strengths in flexure, shear, and bars anchorage, desirable hierarchies of strength attainment, deformation capacities of mechanisms of inelastic deformation, detailing of beams, columns, and structural walls, detailing of beam column joints for shear, and the detailing of diaphragms. The second chapter is devoted to the comparison of the more significant issues dealt in the considered codes. This includes seismic design actions and associated criteria capacity design practice beams columns confinement structural walls and joints It is felt that fib Bulletin 69 represents a useful unique instrument for rapidly gaining an overview of the distinguishing features of the major world codes under both their conceptual framework and application rules
