Work Accommodation and Retention in Mental Health Izabela Z. Schultz,E. Sally Rogers,2010-11-16 Growing interest in the field of mental health in the workplace among policy makers clinicians and researchers alike has been fueled by equal employment rights legislation and increasing disability statistics in mental heath The importance of addressing this topic is underscored by the fact that depression now ranks second on the hierarchy of occupational disabilities The problem is compounded by a host of factors including major difficulties in job retention and productivity experienced by persons with mental health disabilities younger age and higher education of persons with mental health problems and labor shortages and an aging workforce in many industrialized countries In addition particularly in the United States the vocational needs of army veterans returning from duty with mental health disorders require system based solutions and new rehabilitation approaches The pressure created by these powerful legislative societal and economic forces has not been matched by the state of evidence based practices in the field of employment retention and job accommodation in mental health Current research evidence is fragmented limited in scope difficult to access and adversely affected by the traditional divide between the fields of psychiatry and psychology on one hand and interdisciplinary employment research and practices on the other As a result policy makers employers disability compensation systems and rehabilitation and disability management professionals have been left without a critical how to evidence informed toolbox for occupational practices to accommodate and retain persons with mental health disabilities in the workplace Currently no single source of knowledge and research evidence exists in the field that would guide best practices Yet the need for workplace accommodations for persons with mental health disabilities has been growing and based on epidemiological trends is anticipated to grow even more in the future These trends leave physicians psychologists occupational therapists vocational rehabilitation professionals disability managers human resource professionals and policy makers poorly prepared to face the challenge of integrating and maintaining persons with mental health disabilities in the workplace The aim of the Handbook is to close the gap between the needs of the professionals and networks that work with or study persons with mental health disorders in an employment context and the actual knowledge base in the field The Handbook will be written in language that can easily be understood by readers representing a multitude of disciplines and research paradigms spanning the mental health rehabilitation and employment fields of inquiry The Handbook will contribute an integration of the best quantitative and qualitative research in the field together with experts consensus regarding effective work retention and accommodation strategies and practices in mental health The book will consist of five major sections divided into chapters written by recognized experts in these areas

Academic Writing in Higher Education: A Process View on Academic Textual Production Xinghua Liu, Rui Alexandre Alves, Angelique Aitken, Josef Schmied, 2025-10-30 Academic writing in this Research Topic refers to the type of writing demonstrating students disciplinary knowledge of and proficiency in synthesizing analyzing and responding critically to new information Hyland 2004 Swales 1990 which may include those genres like course essays project reports research proposals lab notes journal articles conference paper theses and dissertations As the current workplaces have become increasingly specialized higher education worldwide has been increasingly charged with the task of developing students academic writing and correspondingly on students parts learning through writing has been necessary for them to succeed in higher education To prepare university students for writing challenges during the past decades numerous studies have been devoted to the study of linguistic and rhetorical resources in students academic writing under such umbrella terms like style reader awareness authorial voice writers identity stance evaluation textual structures steps and moves Charles Hunston Hinkel 2002 However previous research on academic writing has been predominantly focused on the linguistic and rhetorical aspects namely the final product of students writing while the nature and processes of composition students engagement and individual differences and the influence of contextual factors like emerging technology have been under explored Thus the goal of this Research Topic is to bring a process oriented and dynamic perspective to the study of textual production in academic contexts by both encouraging an expanded view of existing research paradigms and also welcoming novel approaches Data can be collected by using corpus building interviews and questionnaires but we would also welcome the use of experimental methods and a mixed method approach for data collection Meanwhile previous research mainly studied university students who were learning English as a second or foreign language hence we also welcome research examining first language writers and students who are learning a second or foreign language other than English We believe for the study of the complex phenomenon like academic writing no single method or tool can suffice Therefore we strongly recommend a more creative perspective in data collection and analyzing and interpreting academic writing Papers can present quantitative data analyses based on experimental design or qualitative data analyses stemmed from more ethnographic oriented research Systematic review studies are also welcome We encourage contributions related but not restricted to the following topics 1 Cognitive processes in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 2 Metacognition and self regulation in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 3 Motivation and self efficacy in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 4 Linguistic and rhetorical choices identity construction and disciplinary knowledge construction 5 Student writers textual production peer feedback and interactions with discourse communities 6 Affordances and challenges of artificial intelligence AI in the process of academic textual production in higher education
