What's on your mind, Vishnu?

This is a must-have for any wardrobe. It's simple and versatile. The fabric is soft and comfortable, and the fit is flattering. I especially love the neckline - it's not too high or too low, just perfect.

Translation as a Social Activity Minako O'Hagan, 2011. The new communications infrastructure based on Web 2.0 suggests a formidable impact on translation. The prevailing technological trends for openness, sharing, and collaboration are prompting participation by the Internet crowd in well-established professional areas of work, leading to the emergence of community translation, or so-called translation crowdsourcing. Under the theme of community translation as a social activity and its possible consequences, contributors in this volume consolidate the developments to date and cover the latest initiatives while addressing pertinent issues arising from the blurred boundary between professionals and non-professionals. Digital Religion, Social Media, and Culture Pauline Hope Cheong, 2012. This anthology, the first of its kind in eight years, collects some of the best and most current research and reflection on the complex interactions between religion and computer mediated communication CMC The contributions cohere around the central question how will core religious understandings of identity community and authority shape and be re shaped by the communicative possibilities of Web 2 0 The authors gathered here address these questions in three distinct ways through contemporary empirical research on how diverse traditions across the globe seek to take up the technologies and affordances of contemporary CMC through investigations that place these contemporary developments in larger historical and theological contexts and through careful reflection on the theoretical dimensions of research on religion and CMC In their introductory and concluding essays the editors uncover and articulate the larger intersections and patterns suggested by individual chapters including trajectories for future research
