Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education,1979 Student Loans in China Baoyan Cheng,2011-03-24 In 1989 China started charging tuition on a very small scale at a number of universities as a result of the global trend of cost recovery policies thus ending the free higher education era in China It was not until 1997 that all higher education institutions in China started charging tuition and fees Both the expansion of higher education and the wide gap between income and tuition and fees have created an increasingly high proportion of students who are academically qualified but cannot afford to go to college To address the problem of the increasing number of financially needy students in 1999 China launched the pilot Government subsidized Student Loan Program GSSLP in eight cities This program was extended to full time students at all of the 1 942 public higher education institutions in 2000 and has been undergoing revisions ever since including major ones in 2004 and 2007 As of 2009 the number of financially needy students in China reached 5 27 million accounting for 23 06 percent of the total enrollment of 22 85 million at higher education institutions in China Behind those statistics are young people who suffer in many ways This book provides multiple perspectives namely global comparative empirical practical and philosophical ones on the GSSLP the largest financial aid program in current China It not only provides information on financial aid policies especially the GSSLP in China but also offers a comparative perspective by examining student loan programs in the United States and Australia which are more mature and better developed Using original dataset the empirical and practical perspectives examine the effect of the GSSLP on students behavior and look into the different aspects of the GSSLP including students perceptions of and attitudes toward the program as well as its implementation In addition to these technical aspects of the GSSLP this book also examines the larger concepts of equality and social justice from a philosophical perspective and argues United States Code United States,2018

Schrag,2001-11-30 In 1993 Congress created a student loan repayment plan intended to enable high debt graduates to accept low income public service jobs by reducing their loan payments and eventually forgiving part of their debts But this Congressional initiative only helps those with catastrophically low incomes It has failed to attract many users because as implemented through regulations of the U S Department of Education it requires payment over too long a period 25 years before forgiveness Many students go to graduate and professional schools in pursuit of careers in public service But they often must borrow 100 000 or more to finance their education Their loan repayment obligations become so high that they can no longer afford to follow their ideals and they abandon their plans to have public service careers and seek employment with corporations or firms offering high salaries The income contingent repayment plan should have appealed to would be public interest lawyers who are among the graduates with the highest debt to income ratios but the plan has failed them and Schrag explores why and how the plan should be reformed either by Congress or by the federal administration Taxpayer Information Publications ,2007 Journal of the House of Representatives of the United States United States.
