models were reviewed focussing on those which can simulate performance of the commercial operations Configurations of hydroprocessing reactors were compared in terms of their capability to upgrade various heavy feeds providing that a suitable catalyst was selected Strategies for regeneration utilization and disposal of spent hydroprocessing catalysts were evaluated Potential of the non conventional hydroprocessing involving soluble dispersed catalysts and biocatalysts in comparison with conventional methods were assessed to identify issues which prevent commercial utilization of the former A separate chapter is devoted to catalytic dewaxing because the structure of dewaxing catalysts is rather different than that of hydroprocessing catalysts i e the objective of catalytic dewaxing is different than that of the conventional hydroprocessing The relevant information in the scientific literature is complemented with the Patent literature covering the development of catalysts and novel reactor configurations Separate chapter was added to distinguish upgrading capabilities of the residues catalytic cracking processes from those employing hydroprocessing Upper limits on the content of carbon residue and metals in the feeds which can still be upgraded by the former processes differ markedly from those in the feeds which can be upgraded by hydroprocessing It is necessary that the costs of modifications of catalytic cracking processes to accommodate heavier feeds are compared with that of hydroprocessing methods Objective of the short chapter on upgrading by carbon rejecting processes was to identify limits of contaminants in heavy feeds beyond which catalytic upgrading via hydroprocessing becomes uneconomical because of the costs of catalyst inventory and that of reactors and equipment Comprehensive and most recent information on hydroprocessing catalysts for upgrading heavy petroleum feeds Compares conventional modified and novel catalysts for upgrading a wide range of heavy petroleum feeds Comparison of conventional with non conventional hydroprocessing the latter involving soluble dispersed catalysts and biocatalysts Development and comparison of mathematical models to simulate performance of catalytic reactors including most problematic feeds Residues upgrading by catalytic cracking in comparison to hydroprocessing
