The Flexible Phonics trial proved to be not only an important experiment in improving children's literacy but a case study in which the methodology of single randomised controlled trials in education can be considered. Reading Randomised Controlled Trials investigates the complexities of conducting randomised controlled trials in the field of education and how they can be seen as a cultural activity. The book emphasises the human operations, decision making and actions that drive such trials which are often overlooked in published reports. Through the case study of Flexible Phonics the book highlights the key differences between scaled educational trials and other types of trials such as pharmaceutical trials. The additional focus on early childhood literacy is of significant educational importance particularly in the context of UK school partial closures in 2020 and 2021 during the Covid 19 pandemic. Reading Randomised Controlled Trials is ultimately a unique resource on the implementation of randomised controlled trials in authentic school contexts and for the sustained improvement of practice in education.

Practice and Automatization in Second Language Research Yuichi Suzuki, 2023-08-28 Practice is a recurring and popular theme in language education However the concepts of practice and automatization have recently received renewed theoretical and practical interest and are increasingly being explored from the skill acquisition theory and cognitive psychology perspectives In this volume leading scholars discuss the optimal types amounts and schedules of practice for specific language structures and skills as well as for various types of learners and learning contexts to facilitate second language development They illuminate how practice is instantiated for specific groups of teachers and learners in diverse institutionalized contexts such as foreign language curriculum development intelligent computer assisted language learning systems task based language teaching and study abroad Furthermore original methodological syntheses of extant research on practice and automatization are presented along with guides for conducting empirical research on these topics Practice and Automatization in Second Language Research Perspectives from Skill Acquisition Theory and Cognitive Psychology is a valuable resource and reference for graduate students and researchers in the field of SLA and applied linguistics Reading, Language, and Literacy Fran Lehr, Jean Osborn, 2012-10-12 The impetus for this book emerged from a conference that brought together publishers and reading researchers and educators for the purpose of examining the best available research evidence about what we know and what we have yet to learn about the teaching of reading and about how children learn to read The goal of the conference was to contribute to a sound research base upon which to develop classroom practices that will ensure that every American child will become fully literate Because the field is still so deeply divided over the best ways to translate belief into classroom practice the editors decided to highlight rather than gloss over these divisions It is hoped that the papers in this volume will promote thought and discussion that will lead to action in improving reading instruction for children now and into the new century 10 Essential Instructional Elements for Students With Reading Difficulties Andrew P. Johnson, 2015-10-09 Brain friendly strategies to help all students become lifelong readers Learning to read is more than just an educational issue it's a social justice issue Did you know that struggling readers are twice as likely as their peers to drop out of high school Through time tested research based neurocognitive teaching strategies 10 Essential Instructional Elements for Students with Reading Difficulties will enable you to hone readers skills and help students from all grade levels develop their ability to create meaning from print Drawing from five key areas of neurocognitive research Andrew Johnson provides a ten point teaching strategy that encompasses vocabulary fluency comprehension writing and more A key resource for creating intervention plans for struggling readers features include Information on the often overlooked importance of emotions in the process of overcoming reading struggles Strategies to promote voluntary reading even for the most reluctant students Useful resources such as graphic organizers additional reading and writing activities and QR codes that link to videos Use these strategies today and you can count on more students leaving your classrooms as fluent lifelong readers Dr Johnson tells the story of reading in a logical and clear manner with a book that is excellently researched immaculately referenced and full of practical tips for the practitioner Terry Bernstein Former Senior Literacy Difficulties Specialist London Boroughs of Camden and Westminster UK This is the text I wish I had when I began to teach Dr Johnson clearly illustrates the process our brain uses to create meaning from text Marty Duncan Ed D Author and Former Educator Twentieth Century Reading Education: Understanding Practices of Today in Terms of Patterns of the Past Gerard Giordano, 2021-09-13 This book examines twentieth century reading education Among the major educational issues reviewed are testing diagnosis individualized education textbooks readability multiculturalism bi lingualism disability and technology The book explores attempts by educators and psychologists to answer theoretical as well as practical questions about why only some students developed literacy skills It examines the efforts to prevent reading failure as well as to aid those learners who had not learned to read The four types of remedial programs explored are skills based language based literature based and technology based The book identifies the social emotional physical and cognitive factors that have been linked to remedial reading instruction

Based on a review of more than 3000 primary sources from the 1800s to the present extensive quotations have been integrated into the text to give readers a sense of intellectual involvement with the educators who are discussed

Supporting Every Child Anita Walton, Gillian Goddard, 2013-01-31 A practical and accessible new edition of this essential text for support staff and those involved in teaching and supporting learning Departments of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriations for 1967 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare, and Related Agencies, 1966 Explaining Individual Differences in Reading Susan A. Brady, David Braze, Carol A. Fowler, 2011-05-09 Research into reading development and reading disabilities has been dominated by phonologically guided theories for several decades In this volume the authors of 11 chapters report on a wide array of current research topics examining the scope limits and implications of a phonological theory The chapters are organized in four sections The first concerns the nature of the relations between script and speech that make reading possible considering how different theories of phonology may illuminate the implication of these relations for reading development and skill The second set of chapters focuses on phonological factors in reading acquisition that pertain to early language development effects of dialect the role of instruction and orthographic learning The third section identifies factors beyond the phonological that may influence success in learning to read by examining cognitive limitations that are sometimes co morbid with reading disabilities contrasting the profiles of specific language impairment and dyslexia and considering the impact of particular languages and orthographies on language acquisition Finally in the fourth section behavioral genetic and neurological methods are used to further develop explanations of reading differences and early literacy development The volume is an essential resource for researchers interested in the cognitive foundations of reading and literacy language and communication disorders or psycholinguistics and those working in reading disabilities learning disabilities special education and the teaching of reading
