Committee on Education and Labor, 1958 High-skilled Migration Mathias Czaika, 2018 Political and scientific debates on migration policies have mostly focused on governments efforts to control or reduce low skilled asylum and irregular migration or to encourage the return migration of these categories Less research and constructive discourse has been conducted on the role and effectiveness of policies to attract or retain high skilled workers An improved understanding of the drivers and dynamics of high skilled migration is essential for effective policy making as most highly developed and emerging economies experience growing shortages of high skilled labour supply in certain occupations and sectors and skilled immigration is often viewed as one way of addressing these Simplistic assumptions that high skilled migrants are primarily in pursuit of higher wages raise the expectation that policies which open channels for high skilled immigration are generally successful Although many countries have introduced policies aimed at attracting and facilitating the recruitment of high skilled workers not all recruitment efforts have had the desired effects and anecdotal evidence on the effectiveness of these programmes is rather mixed The reason is that the rather narrow focus on migration policy coincides with a lack of systematic and rigorous consideration of other economic social and political drivers of migration which may be equally or sometimes even more important than migration policies per se A better understanding of migration policies their making consequences and limitations requires a systematic knowledge of the broader economic social and political structures and their interaction in both origin and destination countries This book enhances this vibrant field of social scientific enquiry by providing a systematic multidisciplinary and global analysis of policies driving international high skilled migration processes in their interaction with other migration drivers at the individual city national and international level

The Battle of Marathon in Scholarship Dennis L. Fink, 2014-05-03 This is a thorough historiographic review of the Battle of Marathon Full use is made of the major ancient sources and the debate over the value of Herodotus The book covers the rise of the Persian Empire relations between the Greeks and the Persian Empire and the Ionian revolt that set the stage for the Persian expedition in 490 that led to the Battle of Marathon The book also examines the development of the Persian and Greek military systems weapons armor fighting styles and military tactics The battle itself is described along with the many questions controversies and conflicting theories surrounding it including an explanation of why the Athenians were able to defeat the mighty Persian Empire The final chapter deals with the issue of the importance of the battle The 1190 endnotes and bibliography of more than 400 sources dating from the 1850s to 2012 will allow readers to do more research on any of the topics covered Anthony F. Shaker,2020-10-06 The modern concept and study of civilization have their roots not in western Europe but in the spirit of scientific investigation associated with a self conscious Islamicate civilization What we call modernity cannot be fathomed without this historical connection We owe every major branch of science known today to the broad tradition of systematic inquiry that belongs to a region of being as Heidegger would say whose theoretical practical and institutional dimensions the philosophy of that civilization played an unprecedented role in creating This book focuses primarily on the philosophical underpinnings of questions relating to civilization personhood and identity Contemporary society and thinking in western Europe introduced new elements to these questions that have altered how collective and personal identities are conceived and experienced In the age of globalization expressions of identity individual social and cultural survive precariously outside their former boundaries just when humanity faces perhaps its greatest challenges environmental degradation policy inertia interstate bellicosity and a growing culture of tribalism Yet the world has been globalized for at least a millennium a fact dimmed by the threadbare but still widespread belief that modernity is a product of something called the West One is thus justified in asking as many people do today if humanity has not lost its initiative This is more a philosophical than an empirical question There can be no initiative without the human agency that flows from identity and personhood i e the way we the acting subject live and deliberate about our affairs Given the heavy scrutiny under which the modern concept of identity has come Dr Shaker has dug deeper bringing to bear a wealth of original sources from both German thought and ikmah Islamicate philosophy the latter based on material previously unavailable to scholars Posing the age old question of identity anew in the light of these two traditions whose special historical roles are assured may help clear the confusion surrounding modernity and hopefully our place in human civilization Proximity to Scholasticism and therefore Islamicate philosophy lent German thought up to Heidegger a unique ability to dialogue with other thought traditions Two fecund elements common to Heidegger Q now and Mull adr are of special importance Logos utterance speech as the structural embodiment at once of the primary meaning essential reality of a thing and of divine manifestation and the idea of unity in difference which adr finally formulated as the substantial movement of existence But behind this complexity is the abiding question of who Man is which cannot be answered by theory alone Heidegger who occupies a good portion of this study questioned the modern ontology at a time of social collapse and deep spiritual crisis not unlike ours Yet that period also saw the greatest breakthroughs in modern physics and social science The concluding chapters take up more specifically identity renewal in Western literature and Muslim reformism The renewal theme reflects a point of convergence between the Eurocentric worldview in which modernism has its secular aesthetics roots and a current originating in Ibn Taymiyyah's reductionist epistemology and skeptical fundamentalism It expresses a hopeless longing for origin in a historically pristine golden age an obvious deformation of philosophy's millennial concern with the commanding creative oneness of the Being of beings
