Fiction and the American Literary Marketplace Charles Johanningsmeier, 2002-07-04 Conventional literary history has virtually ignored the role of newspaper syndicates in publishing some of the most famous nineteenth century writers Stephen Crane Henry James Rudyard Kipling Robert Louis Stevenson and Mark Twain were among those who offered their early fiction to Syndicates firms which subsequently sold the work to newspapers across America for simultaneous first time publication This newly decentralised process profoundly affected not only the economics of publishing but also the relationship between authors texts and readers In the first full length study of this publishing phenomenon Charles Johanningsmeier evaluates the unique site of interaction syndicates held between readers and texts JASO, 1988 English Association Bulletin English Association, 1931 Bibliographies of English language and literature lists of new members of the association and lists of publications of the association are included Australian Books and Authors in the American Marketplace 1840s-1940s David Carter, Roger Osborne, 2018-07-02 Australian Books and Authors in the American Marketplace 1840s 1940s explores how Australian writers and their works were present in the United States before the mid twentieth century to a much greater degree than previously acknowledged Drawing on fresh archival research and combining the approaches of literary criticism print culture studies and book history David Carter and Roger Osborne demonstrate that Australian writing was transnational long before the contemporary period In mapping Australian literature's connections to British and US markets their research challenges established understandings of national imperial and world literatures Carter and Osborne examine how Australian authors editors and publishers engaged productively with their American counterparts and how American readers and reviewers responded to Australian works They consider the role played by British publishers and agents in taking Australian writing to America and how the international circulation of new literary genres created new opportunities for novelists to move between markets Some of these writers such as Christina Stead and Patrick White remain household names others who once enjoyed international fame such as Dale Collins and Alice Grant Rosman have been largely forgotten The story of their books in America reveals how culture commerce and copyright law interacted to create both opportunities and obstacles for Australian writers General Catalogue of Printed Books British Museum.
