Théophile Gautier, 2022-09-16 In One of Cleopatra's Nights and Other Fantastic Romances Théophile Gautier crafts a collection of tales that intricately weave the fantastical with historical narratives showcasing his exquisite command of Romantic prose. The stories plunge readers into exotic locales and vivid imaginations reflecting Gautier's fascination with beauty, sensuality, and the enigmatic allure of the Orient. Each narrative is marked by lush descriptions and a dreamlike quality inviting contemplation on the thresholds of reality and fantasy, emphasizing the Romantic ideals of individuality and emotional expression prevalent in 19th-century literature. Théophile Gautier (1811-1872), a prominent figure in the French literary scene, was deeply influenced by the artistic movements of his time, particularly Romanticism and its emphasis on emotional depth and aesthetic beauty. His extensive travels across Europe and his passion for the exotic transformed his writing into an exploration of the otherworldly. Gautier's friendships with contemporaries such as Hugo and Dumas helped shape his literary voice, immersing him in rich cultural dialogues that would inform works like this collection. For readers seeking an elegant escape into a tapestry of reverie and romance, One of Cleopatra's Nights is a must-read. Gautier's masterful prose not only enchants but also provokes thought about the nuances of love, art, and the human condition, making this collection an essential addition to any literary enthusiast's library.

One of Cleopatra's Nights, and Other Fantastic Romances Théophile Gautier,2015-07-01 Excerpt from One of Cleopatra s Nights and Other Fantastic Romances Translated by Lafcadio Hearn The stories composing this volume have been selected for translation from the two volumes of romances and tales by Theophile Gautier respectively entitled Nouvelles and Romans et Contes. They afford in the original many excellent examples of that peculiar beauty of fancy and power of painting with words which made Gautier the most brilliant literary artist of his time. No doubt their warmth of coloring has been impoverished and their fantastic enchantment weakened by the process of transformation into a less voluptuous tongue yet enough of the original charm remains we trust to convey a just idea of the French author's rich imaginative power and ornate luxuriance of style.

Excerpt: FIVE hundred years before the Trojan war and seventeen hundred and fifteen years before our own era there was a grand festival at Sardes. King Candaules was going to marry. The people were affected with that sort of pleasurable interest and aimless emotion wherewith any royal event inspires the masses even though it in no wise concerns them and transpires in superior spheres of life which they can never hope to reach. As soon as Phoebus Apollo standing in his quadriga had gilded to saffron the summits of fertile Mount Tmolus with his rays the good people of Sardes were all astir going and coming mounting or descending the marble stairways leading from the city to the waters of the Pactolus that opulent river whose sands Midas filled with tiny sparks of gold when he bathed in its stream. One would have supposed that each one of these good citizens was himself about to marry so solemn and important was the demeanor of all. Men were gathering in groups in the Agora upon the steps of the temples and along the porticoes. At every street corner one might have encountered women leading by the hand little children whose uneven walk ill suited the maternal anxiety and impatience. Maidens were hastening to the fountains all with urns gracefully balanced upon their heads or sustained by their white arms as with natural handles so as to procure early the necessary water provision for the household and thus obtain leisure at the hour when the nuptial procession should pass. Washerwomen hastily folded the still damp tunics and chlamidae and piled them upon mule wagons. Slaves turned the mill without any need of the overseer's whip to tickle their naked and scar-seamed shoulders. Sardes was hurrying itself to finish with those Theophile Gautier Theophile Gautier, Brother you ask me if I have ever loved Yes My story is a strange and terrible one and though I am sixty six years of age I scarcely dare even now to disturb the ashes of that memory To you I can refuse nothing but I should not relate such a tale to any less experienced mind So strange were the circumstances of my story that I can scarcely believe myself to have ever actually been a party to them For more than three years I remained the victim of a most singular and diabolical illusion Poor country priest though I was I led every night in a dream would to God it had been all a dream a most worldly life a damning1 life a life of a Sardanapalus One single look too freely cast upon a woman well nigh caused me to lose my soul but finally by the grace of God and the assistance of my patron saint I succeeded in casting out the evil spirit that possessed me My daily life was long interwoven with a nocturnal life of a totally different character By day I was a priest of the Lord occupied with prayer and sacred things by night from the instant that I closed my eyes I became a young nobleman a fine connoisseur in women dogs and horses gambling drinking and blaspheming and when I awoke at early daybreak it seemed to me on the other hand that I had been sleeping and had only dreamed that I was a priest Of this somnambulistic life there now remains to me only the recollection of certain scenes and words which I cannot banish from my memory but although I never actually left the walls of my presbytery one would think to hear me speak that I were a man who weary of all worldly pleasures had become a religious seeking to end a tempestuous life in the service of God rather than an humble seminarist who has grown old in this obscure curacy situated in the depths of the woods and even isolated from the life of the century Yes I have loved as none in the world ever loved with an insensate and furious passion so violent that I am astonished it did not cause my heart to burst asunder Ah what nights what nights From my earliest childhood I had felt a vocation to the priesthood so that all my studies were directed with that idea in view Up to the age of twenty four my life had been only a prolonged novitiate Having completed my course of theology I successively received all the minor orders and my superiors judged me worthy despite my youth to pass the last awful degree My ordination was fixed for Easter week I had never gone into the world My world was confined by the walls of the college and the seminary I knew in a vague sort of a way that there was something called Woman but I never permitted my thoughts to dwell on such a subject and I lived in a state of perfect innocence Twice a year only I saw my infirm and aged mother and in those visits were comprised my sole relations with the outer world I regretted nothing I felt not the least hesitation at taking the last irrevocable step I was filled with joy and impatience Never did a betrothed lover count the slow hours with more feverish ardor I slept only to dream that I was saying mass I believed there could be nothing in the world more delightful than to be a priest I would have refused to be a king or a poet in preference My ambition could conceive of no loftier aim I tell you this in order to show you that what happened to me could not have happened in the natural order of things and to enable you to understand that I was the victim of an inexplicable fascination At last the great day came I walked to the church with a step so light that I fancied myself sustained in air or that I had wings upon my shoulders I believed myself an angel and wondered at the somber and thoughtful faces of my companions for there were several of us I had passed all the night in prayer and was in a condition well nigh bordering on ecstasy The bishop a venerable old man seemed to me God the Father leaning over his Eternity and I beheld Heaven through the vault of the temple
