The Contemporary Archaeology of Emotions: Re-Framing the Past and Present Tuuli Matila, 2025-09-30 This SpringerBrief examines emotions in the past through contemporary archaeological materials The author explores this topic using the context of a former working class neighbourhood in northern Finland that existed during the Cold War era 1947 1987 Finland offers an interesting context to examine this because of the twofold emotional frames the Cold War and capitalism versus the nascent welfare state The push and pull between the values emphasizing universal care and compassion against the hardline militarisation and financial competition results in accessing different and sometimes contradictory emotions It also affords a gendered view into the past and such an angle could be attempted in the context of the deep past as well This book offers several examples on how emotions could be accessed in the deep past and draws parallels between the examples from a contemporary western country and various archaeological cultures and contexts Emotions can be a bridge to access the secrets of human behavior Such bridging is the core strength of archaeological education but rarely are emotions acknowledged in the process Lastly this book underlines the role of emotions specifically empathy in archaeological education and in destabilizing contemporary political notions on social norms and contracts

Sentient Archaeologies Courtney Nimura,Rebecca O'Sullivan,Richard Bradley,2023-07-15 Archaeology in the past century has seen a major shift from theoretical frameworks that treat the remains of past societies as static snapshots of particular moments in time to interpretations that prioritize change and variability Though established analytical concepts such as typology remain key parts of the archaeologist s investigative toolkit data gathering strategies and interpretative frameworks have become infused progressively with the concept that archaeology is living in the sense of both the objects of study and the discipline as a whole The significance for the field is that researchers across the world are integrating ideas informed by relational epistemologies and mutually constructive ontologies into their work from the initial stage of project design all the way down to post excavation interpretation This volume showcases examples of such work highlighting the utility of these ideas to exploring material both old and new The illuminating research and novel explanations presented contribute to resolving long standing problems in regional archaeologies across Africa Asia Australia Europe and Oceania In this way this volume reinvigorates approaches taken towards older material but also acts as a springboard for future innovative discussions of theory in archaeology and related disciplines

Historical Archaeology Through a Western Lens Mark Warner, Margaret Purser, 2017-06 A 2017 Choice Outstanding Academic Title The mythic American West with its perilous frontiers big skies and vast resources is frequently perceived as unchanging and timeless The work of many western based historical archaeologists over the past decade however has revealed narratives that often sharply challenge that timelessness Historical Archaeology Through a Western Lens reveals an archaeological past that is distinct to the region but not in ways that popular imagination might suggest Instead this volume highlights a western past characterized by rapid and ever changing interactions between diverse groups of people across a wide range of environmental and economic situations The dynamic and unpredictable lives of western communities have prompted a constant challenging and reimagining of both individual identities and collective understandings of their position within a broader national experience Indeed the archaeological West is one clearly characterized by mobility rather than stasis The archaeologies presented in this volume explore the impact of that pervasive human mobility on the West a world of transience impermanence seasonal migration and accelerated trade and technology at scales ranging from the local to the global By documenting the challenges of both local community building and global networking they provide an archaeology of the West that is ultimately from the West
