Nelson Byrd Woltz Garden Park Community Farm:

Nelson Byrd Woltz Warren Byrd, Thomas Woltz, Elizabeth Meyer, 2013-04-09 Nelson Byrd Woltz's award winning landscape architecture is widely celebrated for combining sheer beauty with ecologically regenerative design. The firm's innovative and highly collaborative design methods bring depleted ecosystems back to life restoring meadows, streams, woodlands and ponds in urban and rural settings and cultivating connections between sites and their complex regional environments. Nelson Byrd Woltz Garden Park Community Farm presents a selection of twelve built projects representing the firm's contemporary vision for sustainable design. These examples demonstrate the remarkable breadth of their practice and inspire a new understanding of how landscape architecture can shape our world through urbanism, agriculture and conservation sciences. The projects range from an urban townhouse garden to an animal friendly habitat for the National Zoo's giant pandas to a large scale sheep and cattle station along the coast of New Zealand. Exceptional photography, hand drawn plans and lists of plants and materials document each project and an appendix of details from numerous additional designs provides an extensive visual reference guide. Nelson Byrd Woltz's transformative landscapes are both an open invitation to learn about nature and a much needed contribution to the health of our cities, farms and wildlands. Landscape and Infrastructure Margaret Birney Vickery, 2019-10-03 Landscape and Infrastructure examines the relationships between landscape painting and landscape design from the seventeenth century to the present and contemporary infrastructure projects around the globe. These seemingly disparate subjects are united by a shared concern for the pastoral middle ground, a traditionally productive landscape. By focusing an art historical lens on pre industrial productive systems and the effects of the Industrial Revolution on the pastoral landscape tradition, we can gain a better understanding of how to weave new approaches to productive infrastructure systems such as power generation, water filtration and food production into our contemporary landscapes. With rising demand for clean energy, clean water and locally grown food, this study offers a historical perspective on how such systems can be integrated into our suburban and urban areas. Vestigial elements of the pastoral tradition have long held aesthetic sway in our suburbs, cities and national parks both in Britain and America. Now as new energy and water related projects encroach on these spaces, remnants of the pastoral play a crucial role in convincing neighborhood residents, municipal leaders and energy companies or water authorities of the benefits of a neighboring infrastructure. This book investigates the history of that tradition and highlights the advantages it brings as we re-imagine infrastructure in the twenty first century. Constructed Ecologies Margaret Grose, 2017-03-16

Today designers are shifting the practice of landscape architecture towards the need for a more complex understanding of ecological science. Constructed Ecologies presents ecology as critical theory for design and provides major ideas for design that are supported with solid and imaginative science. In the questioning narrative of Constructed Ecologies, the author discards many old and tired theories in landscape architecture. With detailed documentation, she casts off the savannah theory, critiques the search for universals.

reveals the needed role of designers in large scale agriculture abandons the overlay technique of McHarg and introduces the ecological and urban health urgency of public night lighting Margaret Grose presents wide ranging new approaches and shows the importance of learning from science for design of going beyond assumptions of working in multiple rather than single issues of disrupting linear design thinking and of dealing with data This book is written with a clear voice by an ecologist and landscape architect who has led design students into loving ecological science for the support it gives design
