International Guide to Student Achievement John Hattie, Eric M. Anderman, 2012 The International Guide to Student Achievement brings together and critically examines the major influences shaping student achievement today. There are many often competing claims about how to enhance student achievement, raising the questions of What works and What works best. World renowned bestselling authors John Hattie and Eric M. Anderman have invited an international group of scholars to write brief empirically supported articles that examine predictors of academic achievement across a variety of topics and domains. Rather than telling people what to do in their schools and classrooms, this guide simply provides the first ever compendium of research that summarizes what is known about the major influences shaping students' academic achievement around the world. Readers can apply this knowledge base to their own school and classroom settings. The 150 entries serve as intellectual building blocks to creatively mix into new or existing educational arrangements and aim for quick, easy reference. Chapter authors follow a common format that allows readers to more seamlessly compare and contrast information across entries, guiding readers to apply this knowledge to their own classrooms, their curriculums, and teaching strategies and their teacher training programs.

Rowe,Emily Dexter,2011-03-01 Winner of the 2013 Eleanor Maccoby Award from APA Division 7 Women s schooling is strongly related to child survival and other outcomes beneficial to children throughout the developing world but the reasons behind these statistical connections have been unclear In Literacy and Mothering the authors show for the first time how communicative change plays a key role Girls acquire academic literacy skills even in low quality schools which enable them as mothers to understand public health messages in the mass media and to navigate bureaucratic health services effectively reducing risks to their children s health With the acquisition of academic literacy their health literacy and health navigation skills are enhanced thereby reducing risks to children and altering interactions between mother and child Assessments of these maternal skills in four diverse countries Mexico Nepal Venezuela and Zambia support this model and are presented in the book Chapter 1 provides a brief history of mass schooling including the development of a bureaucratic Western form of schooling Along with the bureaucratic organization of healthcare services and other institutions this form of mass schooling spread across the globe setting new standards for effective communication standards that are in effect taught

Esther Strahm,2005 Towards A Democratic Nepal Mahendra Lawoti,2005-02-17 Providing a comprehensive critique of the Constitution adopted in 1990 this book identifies it as an important factor in the exclusion of various ethnic and minority groups It examines the causes for the lack of democratic consolidation in Nepal and outlines alternative institutions that can give voice to the various socio cultural groups in the country Dr Lawoti makes a case for setting up a new Constituent Assembly and for following the principle of self determination to reform the polity He also makes several important recommendations for the construction of an inclusive and democratic Nepal Gender Trouble Makers Jennifer Rothchild,2007-05-07 International development efforts aimed at improving girls lives and education have been well intended somewhat effective but ultimately short sighted and incomplete This is because international development efforts often operate under a reductive understanding of the term gender and how it influences the lives of girls and boys Gender is more commonly conceived by international efforts as characteristics which are ascribed to girls as norms for behaviour In particular the analysis in Gender Trouble Makers focuses on the social constructions of gender and the ways in which gender was reinforced and maintained through a case study in rural Nepal In developing countries like Nepal promoting access to and participation in existing formal education programme is clearly necessary but it is not in itself sufficient to transform gender power relations in the broader society When gender is properly addressed as a process then all stakeholders involved researchers governmental officials and community members can begin to understand and devise more effective ways to increase both girl and boy students enrollment participation and success in school Locating the Field Simon

Coleman,Peter Collins,2020-09-09 Are reports of the death of conventional fieldwork in anthropology greatly exaggerated This book takes a critical look at the latest developments and key issues in fieldwork The nature of locality itself is problematic for both research subjects and fieldworkers on the grounds that it must now be maintained and represented in relation to widening and fragmenting social frames and networks Such developments have raised questions concerning the nature of ethnographic presence and scales of comparison From the social space of a cybercafe to cities in India the UK and South Africa among others this book features a wide range of ethnographic studies that provide new ways of looking at the concepts of locality and site It shows that rather than taking key fieldwork processes such as globalization and mobility for granted anthropologists are well placed to examine and critique the totalizing assumptions behind these notions
