Vivas, Panagiotis D. Bamidis, 2020-11-18 Previous studies showed that both healthy and pathological aging are associated with changes in brain structure and function of the mature human brain The most prominent anatomical alteration are changes in prefrontal cortex morphology volume loss and reduced white matter integrity and hippocampal atrophy Cognitive decline affects mainly the performance of episodic memory speed of sensory information processing working memory inhibitory function and long term memory It has been also proposed that due to the aforementioned changes the aging brain engages in compensatory brain mechanism such as a broader activation of cortical regions mainly frontal rather than specialized activation Evidence suggests that similar changes occur with pathological aging but to a greater extent In this case information flow is disrupted due to neurodegeneration functional activation of posterior occipito temporal regions is decreased and as a consequence the brain fails to process sensorial input in the ventral pathway and cognitive deficits appear In the last years functional alterations associated with aging have been studied using the mathematical notion of graph theory that offers an integrative approach since it examines different properties of the brain network 1 Organization level 2 amount of local information processing 3 information flow 4 cortical community structure and 5 identification of functional anatomical hubs So graph theory offers an attractive way to model brain networks organization and to quantify their pathological deviations Previous studies have already employed this mathematical notion and demonstrated that age related neurodegeneration is often accompanied by loss of optimal network organization either due to diminished local information processing or due to progressive isolation of distant brain regions They have also found that changes in network properties may be present even in the preclinical phase which could be taken as a biological marker of disease

Comparing the Social Policy Experience of Britain and Taiwan Catherine Jones Finer, 2018-10-24 This title was first published in 2001 This is a seminal collection For the first time leading scholars and practitioners from Taiwan join with counterparts from Britain to offer comparable commentary on key social policy and social service issues affecting their respective countries The result is as thought provoking as it is informative The approach adopted of encouraging writers to speak for themselves virtually without restriction could well provide a model in itself for encouraging and easing contributions from previously unrepresented countries into the mainstream of comparative cross national social policy debate Concluding papers on the prospects for East West comparative social policy in general confirm the significance of this collection by emphasizing its contribution to broader social and political debates

Financial Reporting in India Claire Marston, 2025-06-02 First published in 1986 Financial Reporting in India provides a comprehensive review of Indian financial reporting and makes a comparison with the United Kingdom The book compares and contrasts financial reporting practices in the United Kingdom and India by examining the influences on accounting practices in the two countries and by comparing the actual accounting practices and level of disclosure of information in financial reports It concludes by providing information on the amount of influence exerted by the United Kingdom on Indian accounting practices This book will be of interest to students and researchers of Asian studies and economics
