Reclaiming Your Community Majora Carter, 2006-10-19 Majora Carter shows how brain drain cripples low status communities and maps out a development strategy focused on talent retention to help them break out of economic stagnation My musical In the Heights explores issues of community gentrification identity and home and the question Are happy endings only ones that involve getting out of your neighborhood to achieve your dreams In her refreshing new book Majora Carter writes about these issues with great insight and clarity asking us to re-examine our notions of what community development is and how we invest in the futures of our hometowns This is an exciting conversation worth joining Lin Manuel Miranda How can we solve the problem of persistent poverty in low status communities Majora Carter argues that these areas need a talent retention strategy just like the ones companies have Retaining homegrown talent is a critical part of creating a strong local economy that can resist gentrification But too many people born in low status communities measure their success by how far away from them they can get Carter who could have been one of them returned to the South Bronx and devised a development strategy rooted in the conviction that these communities have the resources within themselves to succeed She advocates measures such as Building mixed income instead of exclusively low income housing to create a diverse and robust economic ecosystem Showing homeowners how to maximize the long term value of their property so they won't succumb to quick cash offers from speculators Keeping people and dollars in the community by developing vibrant third spaces restaurants bookstores and places like Carter's own Boogie Down Grind Cafe This is a profoundly personal book Carter writes about her brother's murder how turning a local dumping ground into an award winning park opened her eyes to the hidden potential in her community her struggles as a woman of color confronting the male and pale real estate and nonprofit establishments and much more It is a powerful rethinking of Membership Innovation Rosie Siemer, 2020-04-02 Cultural organizations are entering an era of significant challenges. Rising operating costs, unpredictable funding sources, stagnant membership, and an increasingly competitive landscape for leisure activities indicate that these institutions have reached a critical juncture: what has worked for them in the past will not work going forward. At the same time, massive shifts in demographics and lifestyles are driving changes in consumer behavior that threaten the survival of the traditional membership business model. Drawing from a wide range of research spanning the disciplines of behavioral economics, philanthropy, and social psychology, author and museum consultant Rosie Siemer explores the trends shaping the future of cultural organizations and offers innovative strategies designed to help them survive and thrive in today's rapidly changing marketplace. Using museums as the primary subject matter of her research, Siemer analyzes the challenges and opportunities for membership as a means of engaging existing members, cultivating new audiences, and keeping museums on track for sustainable revenue. Tapping into the principles of design thinking and the lean startup methodology, Siemer provides a fresh perspective into how museum leaders can adapt systems, roles, and metrics to encourage experimentation, collaboration, and agility within their organizations. Change is required for museums to keep ahead of the curve and remain competitive. Siemer writes: "Thankfully, the time for taking steps to evolve has never been better. New research, bold experiments, and pioneering leaders have helped to usher in an era of fresh thinking that challenges the status quo of the traditional membership model." Loaded with thought-provoking insights, innovative case studies, and practical applications for audience development, marketing, and membership, Museum Membership Innovation offers museum leaders a framework for reimagining membership with an empathy-first approach that prioritizes the needs of audiences. Catholic Bulwark
