Research Division, 1981. Several specific objectives have had wide recognition in the arts community namely to broaden the audience for the performing arts to determine the applicability of sophisticated tools of marketing to the problem of generating demand for the arts to find the best predictors of arts attendance and to develop strategies that will appeal to those who by these predictors are potential attenders. This research report summarizes a study conducted in 1977 by Alan R Andreasen and Russell W Belk. The investigators collected new audience data in a carefully controlled group of surveys in four southern cities Atlanta Baton Rouge Columbia and Memphis and applied to these data a number of sophisticated measuring and marketing techniques to discover efficient and effective methods for inducing marginal attenders of the performing arts to become frequent patrons. Although no hitherto untried means to this end were uncovered this publication makes advanced techniques more comprehensible and accessible to arts administrators. In addition by analyzing characteristics that move or do not move people to attend performing arts events and from that analysis deriving strategies capable of altering factors that lead to nonattendance enough practical conclusions were reached to recommend an extended program of experimentation in the four cities studied.
