Students at Risk of School Failure José Jesús Gázquez,José Carlos Núñez,2018-10-18 The main objective of this Research Topic is to determine the conditions that place students at risk of school failure identifying student and context variables In spite of the fact that there is currently little doubt about how one learns and how to teach in some countries of the developed world there is still there is a high rate of school failure Although the term school failure is a very complex construct insofar as its causes consequences and development from the field of educational psychology the construct student engagement has recently gained special interest in an attempt to deal with the serious problem of school failure School engagement builds on the anatomy of the students involvement in school and describes their feelings behaviors and thoughts about their school experiences So engagement is an important component of students school experience with a close relationship to achievement and school failure Children who self set academic goals attend school regularly and on time behave well in class complete their homework and study at home are likely to interact adequately with the school social and physical environments and perform well in school In contrast children who miss school are more likely to display disruptive behaviors in class miss homework frequently exhibit violent behaviors on the playground fail subjects be retained and if the behaviors persist quit school Moreover engagement should also be considered as an important school outcome eliciting more or less supportive reactions from educators For example children who display school engaged behaviors are likely to receive motivational and instructional support from their teachers The opposite may also be true But what makes student engage more or less The relevant literature indicates that personal variables e g sensory motor neurodevelopmental cognitive motivational emotional behavior problems learning difficulties addictions social and or cultural variables e g negative family conditions child abuse cultural deprivation ethnic conditions immigration or school variables e g coexistence at school bullying cyberbullying may concurrently hinder engagement preventing the student from acquiring the learnings in the same conditions as the rest of the classmates Heath Mathematics Walter E. El-Hi Textbooks and Serials in Print ,2006 Starting Science...Again? Martin Braund,2008-10-09 The structure of this book encourages active participation via reflective activity boxes which further allows for the engagement and consolidation of ideas Evidence based research is cited resulting in the author suggesting a number of practical activities to encourage progression and continuity in science ESCalate Why do pupils learning and motivation slow down markedly as they move from primary to secondary school Why is this situation worse in science than in any other curriculum subject This book combines reports of and reflection on best practice in improving progression and continuity of teaching and learning in science particularly at that transition stage between primary and secondary school Presenting the views of teachers and pupils on progression learning and application of science the book suggests practical ways of improving teaching and learning in science Each chapter includes examples of learning materials with notes on how these might be used or adapted by teachers in their own classroom settings Science teaching in secondary schools is often based on assumptions that children know or can do very little so the job in the secondary school becomes one of showing pupils how to start doing science properly as if from scratch The damage that this false view can do to pupils learning motivation and confidence is clear This book will help teachers to assess children s prior knowledge effectively and build meaningful and enjoyable science lessons
