Investment Decisions in Small Business Martin B.

Soloman Jr.,2014-07-15 How to choose the investment that will give the best return is a problem faced by all businessmen Yet for the small businessman in particular the literature on capital budgeting intended to help him in his investment decisions seems not to apply to his actual situation Here in this study theory and practice are brought together within the context of small business Author Martin B Solomon Jr compares two theoretically sound formulas present value and the discounted rate of return with simpler methods of calculating the returns on investments The superiority of the refined methods he points out is practically nullified under the usual conditions of uncertainty The primary need of the small businessman Solomon concludes is not for better methods of ranking alternatives but for the reservation of a portion of his time for seeking a variety of investment opportunities through the greater exercise of imagination and creativity
