1. Graphical Solution: The graphical solution involves plotting the objective function and the constraints on a graph. The feasible region is the area where all constraints are satisfied. The optimal solution is found at the vertex of the feasible region that maximizes the objective function.

2. Simplex Method: The simplex method is an algebraic technique for solving linear programming problems. It involves iteratively improving the objective function value by moving from one vertex of the feasible region to the next. The method terminates when no further improvement is possible.

3. Duality: Duality is a powerful tool for analyzing linear programming problems. It involves formulating a dual problem that is related to the primal problem. The optimal solution to the primal problem is equal to the optimal solution to the dual problem.

4. Software: There are many software packages available for solving linear programming problems. These packages use sophisticated algorithms to find the optimal solution quickly and accurately.
