One Hundred More Poems From The Chinese Love And The Turning Year:

One Hundred More Poems from the Chinese, 2014-04-10 An assemblage of delicate Chinese verse which delicately explore the worlds of love nature and meditation Love and the Turning Year includes a selection from the Yueh Fu folk songs from the Six Dynasties Period fourth fifth centuries A D Most of the songs are simple erotic lyrics Some are attributed to legendary courtesans while others may have been sung at harvest festivals or marriage celebrations In addition to the folk songs Rexroth offers a wide sampling of Chinese verse works by 60 different poets from the third century to our own time Rexroth always translated Chinese poetry as he said solely to please myself And he created with remarkable success English versions which stand as poems in their own right Love and the Turning Year Kenneth Rexroth, 1970 An assemblage of delicate Chinese verse which delicately explore the worlds of love nature and meditation Collected Longer Poems Kenneth Rexroth, 2013-05-15 This is a companion volume to the Collected Shorter Poems of Kenneth Rexroth which was published in 1967 This is a companion volume to the Collected Shorter Poems of Kenneth Rexroth which was published in 1967 All of the long poems written over the past forty years are included The Homestead Called Damascus 1920 25 A Prolegomenon to a Theodicy 1925 27 The Phoenix and the Tortoise 1940 44 The Dragon and the Unicorn 1944 50 and The Heart s Garden The Garden s Heart 1967 68 As we read the long poems together and in sequence we can see that Rexroth is a philosophical poet of consequence who offers us a comprehensive system of values based on the realization of the ethical mysticism of universal responsibility He is concerned above all with process the movement from the Dual to the Other I have tried Rexroth writes to embody in verse the belief that the only valid conservation of value lies in the assumption of unlimited liability the supernatural identification of the self with the tragic unity of creative process I hope I have made it clear that the self does not do this by an act of will by sheer assertion He who would save his life must lose it One Hundred Poems from the Chinese Kenneth Rexroth, 2014-06-10 The lyrical world of Chinese poetry in faithful translations by Kenneth Rexroth The lyric poetry of Tu Fu ranks with the greatest in all world literature Across the centuries Tu Fu lived in the T ang Dynasty 731 770 his poems come through to us with an immediacy that is breathtaking in Kenneth Rexroth s English versions They are as simple as they are profound as delicate as they are beautiful Thirty five poems by Tu Fu make up the first part of this volume The translator then moves on to the Sung Dynasty 10th 12th centuries to give us a number of poets of that period much of whose work was not previously available in English Mei Yao Ch en Su Tung P o Lu Yu Chu Hsi Hsu Chao and the poetesses Li Ch iang Chao and Chu Shu Chen There is a general introduction biographical and explanatory notes on the poets and poems and a bibliography of other translations of Chinese poetry The New Directions Anthology of Classical Chinese Poetry Eliot Weinberger, 2003 Provides translations of more than two hundred fifty poems by over forty poets from early anonymous poetry through the T ang and Sung dynasties Classical Chinese Literature John Minford, Joseph S. M. Lau, 2000 Ecocollapse Fiction and Cultures of Human Extinction Sarah E. McFarland, 2021-01-28

This work analyzes 21st century realistic speculations of human extinction fictions that imagine future worlds without interventions of as yet uninvented technology interplanetary travel or other science fiction elements that provide hope for rescue or long term survival Climate change fiction as a genre of apocalyptic and post apocalyptic writing usually resists facing the potentiality of human species extinction following instead traditional generic conventions that imagine primitivist communities of human survivors with the means of escaping the consequences of global climate change Yet amidst the ongoing sixth great extinction works that problematize survival provide no opportunities for social rebirth and speculate humanity's final end may address the problem of how to reject the impulse of human exceptionalism that pervades climate change discourse and post apocalyptic fiction Rather than following the preferences of the genre the ecocollapse fictions examined here manifest apocalypse where the means for a happy ending no longer exists In these texts diminished ecosystems specters of cannibalism and disintegrations of difference and othering render human self identity as radically malleable within their confrontations with the stark materiality of all life This book is the first in depth exploration of contemporary fictions that imagine the imbrication of human and nonhuman within global species extinctions It closely interrogates novels from authors like Peter Heller Cormac McCarthy and Yann Martel that reject the impulse of human exceptionalism to demonstrate what it might be like to go extinct

Thermal Delight in Architecture Lisa Heschong, 1979-12-05 Our thermal environment is as rich in cultural associations as our visual acoustic olfactory and tactile environments This book explores the potential for using thermal qualities as an expressive element in building design Until quite recently building technology and design has favored high energy consuming mechanical methods of neutralizing the thermal environment It has not responded to the various ways that people use remember and care about the thermal environment and how they associate their thermal sense with their other senses The hearth fire the sauna the Roman and Japanese baths and the Islamic garden are discussed as archetypes of thermal delight about which rituals have developed reinforcing bonds of affection and ceremony forged in the thermal experience Not only is thermal symbolism now obsolete but the modern emphasis on central heating systems and air conditioning and hermetically sealed buildings has actually damaged our thermal coping and sensing mechanisms This book for the solar age could help change all that and open up for us a new dimension of architectural experience As the cost of energy continues to skyrocket alternatives to the use of mechanical force must be developed to meet our thermal needs A major alternative is the use of passive solar energy and the book will provide those interested in solar design with a reservoir of ideas

Words and Images Alfreda Murck, Wen Fong, 1991 In May of 1985 an international symposium was held at The Metropolitan Museum of Art in honor of John M Crawford Jr whose gifts of Chinese calligraphy and painting have constituted a significant addition to the Museum's holdings Over a three day period senior scholars from China Japan Taiwan Europe and the United States expressed a wide range of perspectives on an issue central to the history of Chinese visual aesthetics the relationships between poetry calligraphy and painting The practice of integrating the three art forms known as san chieh or the three perfections in one work of art emerged during the Sung and Yuan dynasties largely in the context of literati culture and it has stimulated lively critical discussion ever since This publication contains twenty three essays based on the papers presented at the Crawford symposium Grouped by subject matter in a roughly chronological order these essays reflect research on topics spanning two millennia of Chinese history The result is an interdisciplinary exploration of the complex set of relationships between words and images by art historians literary historians and scholars of calligraphy Their findings provide us with a new level of understanding of this rich and complicated subject and suggest further directions for the study of Chinese art history The essays are accompanied by 255 illustrations some of which reproduce works rarely published Chinese characters have been provided throughout the text for artists names terms titles of works of art and literature and important historical figures as well as for excerpts of selected poetry and prose A chronology also containing Chinese characters and an extensive index contribute to making this book illuminating and invaluable to both the specialist and the layman

The Center of the World June Howard, 2018 This book studies literary regionalism and it shows that one of the ways we imagine the world is through writing and reading about particular places It explores how writers are shaped by particular places and how their stories shape our understanding of localities and the globe

Ezra Pound and the Appropriation of Chinese Poetry Ming Xie,2021-12-12 First published in 1999

The subject of this book is the translation and appropriation of Chinese poetry by some English and American writers in the early decades of this century The author explores the be concerned as much with English translation of Chinese poetry per se as with the relationship between this body of translation from the Chinese and the developing poetics and practices of what is usually referred to as Imagism as much with the question of historical influence or ascription as with certain interpretive and critical aspects of this correlative relationship Focusing on the direct influence of Chinese poetry upon the theory and practice of Imagism attributing to Imagist poets in general and Ezra Pound in particular the perception in Chinese poetry of the essential qualities and principles for rejuvenating English poetry in the early decades of the century

The Eye of the Sandpiper Brandon Keim,2017-06-20 In The Eye of the Sandpiper Brandon Keim pairs cutting edge science with a deep love of nature conveying his insights in prose that is both accessible and beautiful In an elegant thoughtful tour of nature in the twenty first century Keim continues in the tradition of Lewis Thomas Stephen Jay Gould and David Quammen reporting from the frontiers of science while celebrating the natural world s wonders and posing new questions about our relationship to the rest of life on Earth The stories in The Eye of the Sandpiper are arranged in four thematic sections Each addresses nature through a different lens The first is evolutionary and ecological dynamics from how patterns form on butterfly wings to the ecological importance of oft reviled lampreys The second section explores the inner lives of animals which science has only recently embraced empathy in rats emotions in honeybees spirituality in chimpanzees The third section contains stories of people acting on insights both ecological and ethological nourishing blighted rivers but also caring for injured pigeons at a hospital for wild birds and demanding legal rights for primates The fourth section unites ecology and ethology in discussions of ethics how we should think about and behave toward nature and the place of wildness in a world in which space for wilderness is shrinking By appreciating the nonhuman world more fully Keim writes I hope people will also act in ways that nourish rather than impoverish its life which is ultimately the problem that needs to be solved at this Anthropocene moment with a sixth mass extinction looming once common animals becoming rare and Earth straining to support 7 5 billion people The solution will come from a love of nature rather than chastisement or lamentation

Changing Educational Landscapes Dimitris Mattheou,2010-04-08 Analyzing educational landscapes the fundamental values principles and institutions of the sector is a highly complex and demanding task for any researcher Like shifting desert sands these aspects of education are in a constant state of flux changing according to the unpredictable economic social cultural and geo political circumstances of late modernity Key aspects of the intricate fluid and multifarious contemporary setting can always escape the researcher s necessarily selective observation The contributors to this book share the view that it is wise therefore to take note of other people's ideas, perceptions and perspectives to compare notes and reflect critically on them. Thus the papers presented here are a critical and comparative analysis of today's changing educational landscapes. They are an exploration of some of the forces and factors that induce these changes and also examine some of their most significant implications. The work takes a fresh look at received ideology and institutional practices and delineates the increasingly internationalized educational discourses and policies. Among other things, the book discusses the obsession with quality in education and the alternative perceptions of educational equality, the rising concern at the obstacles to truly multicultural education and the debate about the epistemological foundations both of knowledge and knowledge production. Underlying all of the papers in the book is the authors' intention to enhance our understanding of educational change in this era of transition and to further our appreciation of its multifaceted expressions across the world.

Updating the Literary West, 1997. Western writers say Thomas J. Lyon in his epilogue to Updating the Literary West have grown up with the frontier myth but now find themselves in the early stages of creating a new western myth. The editors of the Literary History of the American West TCU Press 1987 hoped that the first volume would begin not conclude their exploration of the West's literary heritage. Out of this hope comes Updating the Literary West, a comprehensive reference anthology including essays by over one hundred scholars. A selected bibliography is included with each piece. In the ten years since publication of LHAW, western writing has developed a significantly larger presence in the national literary stream. A variety of cultural viewpoints have developed along with new tactics for literary study. New authors have risen to prominence and the range of subjects has changed and widened. Updating the Literary West looks at topics ranging from western classics to cowboys and Cadillacs and considers children's literature, ethnicity, environmental writing, gender issues and other topics in which change has been rapid since publication of LHAW. This volume again affirms the West's literary legitimacy, status hard earned by the Western Literary Association and the lasting place of popular western writing as part of the growing and changing literary and American experience. An excellent reference for a wide range of readers and an invaluable resource for scholars and libraries. Selected list of contributors: James Maguire, Fred Erisman, Susan J. Rosowski, Gerald Haslam, Tom Pilkington, A. Carl Bredahl, Richard Slotkin, John G. Cawelti, Robert F. Gish, Ann Ronald, Mick McAllister.

Chinese Literature William McNaughton, 2012-11-13. Almost three thousand years of Chinese literature have been gathered together in Chinese Literature: An Anthology from the Earliest Times to the Present Day. The earliest preserved folk songs of the peasantry, the major works of the Golden Age of Chinese philosophy, the prose songs and the later skillful poems of the Tang dynasty, the short stories and plays, the novels and the poems and stories of men who have made modern China—all these are represented in this anthology in complete works or in excerpts. Editor William McNaughton presents Chinese literature as an organic development so that the student as well as the general reader can see how genre evolved into genre and form developed into form. He has based this presentation on work by Chinese critics and scholars that until recently has not been available outside China In addition to classical writings the poems and stories by twentieth century writers most of which have been newly translated into English give new insights into modern Chinese society and individuals and make this the most complete one volume anthology ever published An Introduction to Chinese Poetry Michael Fuller,2020-10-26

This innovative textbook for learning classical Chinese poetry moves beyond the traditional anthology of poems translated into English and instead brings readers including those with no knowledge of Chinese as close as possible to the texture of the poems in their original language The first two chapters introduce the features of classical Chinese that are important for poetry and then survey the formal and rhetorical conventions of classical poetry The core chapters present the major poets and poems of the Chinese poetic tradition from earliest times to the lyrics of the Song Dynasty 960 1279 Each chapter begins with an overview of the historical context for the poetry of a particular period and provides a brief biography for each poet Each of the poems appears in the original Chinese with a word by word translation followed by Michael A Fuller s unadorned translation and a more polished version by modern translators A question based study guide highlights the important issues in reading and understanding each particular text Designed for classroom use and for self study the textbook s goal is to help the reader appreciate both the distinctive voices of the major writers in the Chinese poetic tradition and the grand contours of the development of that tradition
