One To One Understanding Personal Relationships:

One to One Theodore Isaac Rubin, 1983 Personal Relationships and Personal Networks Malcolm R. Parks, 2017-09-25
The effort to understand personal relationships has traditionally focused on the individual characteristics of participants. Personal Relationships and Personal Networks takes this analysis a step further focusing on research linking participants' feelings and actions within a given personal relationship to the larger social context surrounding it. Author Malcolm R. Parks expands on the idea that the initiation, development, maintenance, and dissolution of relationships are inextricably connected to each participant's social network, a perspective that allows for a better appreciation of our connection to the world and a greater understanding of our significant power as social actors. This book offers a new way to consider basic notions about how relationships form, such as how particular people meet and how relationships are started. Among many findings, the volume demonstrates that individuals in relationships feel closer and generally more connected when they also have a greater amount of contact with the members of each other's personal networks and when they believe that network members support their relationship. Additional topics discussed include how this social context model is applicable to different types of relationships, how participants interact with network members, how social networks are involved in the deterioration of personal relationships, and what drives change in relationships. Students, researchers, and professionals in a wide variety of disciplines such as communication, psychology, sociology, anthropology, family studies, clinical psychology, public health, nursing, education, and social work will find this book useful, as will anyone seeking to better understand their own personal relationships.

Relationships Robert Hinde, 2015-01-28. This volume on close relationships in adulthood discusses the central issues in the field and points the way towards the construction of an integrated body of knowledge about human relationships. The self, interactions, relationships, and groups are treated as dynamic processes in dialectical relations with each other and with the socio-cultural structure of norms, values, beliefs, and institutions. Early chapters introduce aspects of the self relevant to the dynamics of interactions and relationships. Intrapsychic Processes of Cognition and Emotion are emphasized. These are followed by chapters discussing the principal characteristics of relationships. Seven further chapters focus on the processes involved in the dynamics of relationships, and later chapters synthesize previous ones in discussions of love and friendship and the nature of relationship change. The focus throughout the text is on current work and current controversy placed against a background of knowledge that has been built up in recent decades

Dialectical Approaches to Studying Personal Relationships Barbara M. Montgomery, Leslie A. Baxter, 2013-09-13 This book describes many different and useful ways of understanding personal relationships from a dialectical perspective It is written for scholars in higher education both faculty and students across many fields within the social sciences and the humanities who seek answers to questions about how people relate to one another The book is valuable for all scholars who pursue new ideas because it models a form of scholarly communication in which multiple voices can be acknowledged as valid the worth of one perspective is not measured by the denigration of another and difference is celebrated as conducive to learning rather than threatening to it The contributors emphasize the characteristics of their dialectical view that set them apart from other dialectical authors and describe their methods of studying relationships from a dialectical perspective Following the Bakhtinian perspective they honor the values of dialogism by respecting different and sometimes contradictory views assuming that these views can be valid and joining in a discussion with the editors and other contributors about their emerging work They also acknowledge that the chapters in this text are part of an ongoing process to frame and reframe emerging ideas and allow the dialogue that occurs within this frame the freedom to express creative unique ideas

The Interpreting Spirit Hannah R. K. Mather, 2020 The Interpreting Spirit is both a consideration of the Spirit's role in the interpretation of Scripture and a celebration of renewal scholarship It examines those who have focused on the Spirit's role in their hermeneutical considerations recognizing common uniting themes amidst the diversity of scholarly approach and opinion Working on the principle that the Spirit communicates in ways that seek to unify and celebrate the other Mather works diachronically from 1970 identifying and drawing together these common uniting hallmarks into a collective understanding Pivotal to Mather's argument is her emphasis that we do not just interpret Scripture but that the Spirit through Scripture and working in our lives in ways that lead us towards Scripture interprets us The Interpreting Spirit is the first comprehensive analysis of the conversation surrounding pneumatic interpretation that has been taking place particularly among renewal scholars since 1970 It seeks to answer the notoriously difficult question What does the Spirit do in the process of biblical interpretation Awarded 2021 Award of Excellence by The Foundation for Pentecostal Scholarship

Balthasar Hubmaier's Doctrine of Salvation in Dynamic and Relational Perspective ChangKyu Kim, 2013-08-12 This book aims to explore the meaning of salvation in Balthasar Hubmaier's theology Previous research has tended to explain and evaluate his theology by locating his identity among contemporary Anabaptists Moreover Hubmaier's theology has been variously labeled as Catholic Anabaptist Magisterial Anabaptist or as a bridge between the Radical and Magisterial branches of the Reformation These approaches to Hubmaier's theology essentially depend on a static and transactional perspective where the result comes from the cause Such an approach cannot fully explain the distinctive features of Hubmaier's theology because his theology had multiple rather than single influences To understand Hubmaier's theology we need to focus on his motive and purpose in writing rather than external influences This volume attempts to explore a new understanding of Hubmaier's theology reflecting a necessary change in our paradigmatic methodologies This fresh perspective helps us see that Hubmaier's theology was not static and transactional but dynamic and relational As Hubmaier's main purpose was to give readers a proper understanding of soteriology his writings were written from this perspective concentrating on salvation This volume aims to enable the reader to access this unique understanding of soteriology by examining his primary texts in three categories free will baptism and the Lord's Supper To understand Hubmaier's theology through a new methodology leads us to rethink the meaning of salvation
