The Chimpanzees of the Taï Forest Christophe Boesch, Hedwige

Boesch-Achermann, 2000 The chimpanzees are the closest living evolutionary relatives to our own species Homo sapiens As such they have long exerted a fascination over those with an interest in human evolution and what makes humans unique Christophe Boesch and Hedwige Boesch-Achermann undertook an incredible observational study of a group of wild chimpanzees of the Tai forest in Cote D'Ivoire spending some fifteen years in the West African jungle with them This fascinating book is the result of these years of painstaking research among the chimps Chimpanzee behavior is documented here in all its impressive diversity and variety Aggression territoriality social structure and relationships reproductive strategies hunting tool use each of these is given its own chapter along with topics such as chimp intelligence life histories and demography The authors take care to place their observations within the broader context of research in behavioral ecology and to compare and contrast their findings with other important work on chimpanzee groups such as that by Jane Goodall The book concludes with a summary chapter relating the chimpanzee findings to our understanding of human evolution Combining careful scientific observation with a store of entertaining anecdotes this is a lively and readable book It also succeeds in shedding light on some of the central questions around the evolutionary relationships between the primates and in particular the affinity between chimpanzees and humans This is a major contribution to the study of the great apes and a significant addition to debates about human ape evolution It has all the makings of a classic monograph

Fang-tastic Fiction Patricia O'Brien Mathews, 2011 Mathews uses a limited definition of paranormal and examines works set for the most part in a relatively realistic modern world inhabited by both humans and paranormal beings
