Pathways to the Profession of Educational Development

Jeanette McDonald,Denise Stockley,2011-10-07 The contributors to this volume are academics working directly or indirectly with teaching and learning centers and professional communities serving in the capacity of educational developer researcher or specialist unit manager or director or senior administrator Drawing on survey and interview data individual experience or perspective and familiarity with the educational literature they offer a context to understand and appreciate how the field of educational development developer practice and individual pathways have evolved further highlighting what territory remains to be explored and uncovered Over the last fifty years educational development has evolved from an informal set of instructional improvement activities championed by individuals to a scholarly field of study and practice that aims to advance teaching and learning at the individual institutional and more recently sector levels During this time educational development work has moved from the fringes to the mainstream of the higher education landscape bringing to the community a diverse group of dedicated academic professionals This volume draws on their experience and insight to provide an invaluable guide to future challenges and issues This is the 122nd volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning which offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers

The Education of Historians for Twenty-first Century Thomas Bender, Philip F. Katz, Colin A. Palmer, Committee on Graduate Education, 2010-10-01 An examination and analysis of history education in American colleges and universities In 1958 the American Historical Association began a study to determine the status and condition of history education in U S colleges and universities Published in 1962 and addressing such issues as the supply and demand for teachers student recruitment and training for advanced degrees that report set a lasting benchmark against which to judge the study of history thereafter Now more than forty years later the AHA has commissioned a new report The Education of Historians for the Twenty first Century documents this important new study s remarkable conclusions Both the American academy and the study of history have been dramatically transformed since the original study but doctoral programs in history have barely changed This report from the AHA explains why and offers concrete practical recommendations for improving the state of graduate education The Education of Historians for the Twenty first Century stands as the first investigation of graduate training for historians in more than four decades and the best available study of doctoral education in any major academic discipline Prepared for the AHA by the Committee on Graduate Education the report represents the combined efforts of a cross section of the entire historical profession It draws upon a detailed review of the existing studies and data on graduate education and builds upon this foundation with an exhaustive survey of history doctoral programs This included actual visits to history departments across the country and consultations with scores of individual historians graduate students deans academic and non academic employers of historians as well as other stakeholders in graduate education As the ethnic and gender composition of both graduate students and faculty has changed methodologies have been refined and the domains of historical inquiry expanded By addressing these revolutionary intellectual and demographic changes in the historical profession The Education of Historians for the Twenty first Century breaks important new ground Combining a detailed historical snapshot of the profession with a rigorous analysis of these intellectual changes this volume is ideally positioned as the definitive guide to strategic planning for history departments It includes practical recommendations for handling institutional challenges as well as advice for everyone involved in the advanced training of historians from department chairs to their students and from university administrators to the AHA itself. Although focused on history there are lessons here for any department. The Education of Historians for the Twenty first Century is a model for in depth analysis of doctoral education with recommendations and analyses that have implications for the entire academy. This volume is required reading for historians graduate students university administrators or anyone interested in the future of higher education. Exploring Research-Based Teaching Carolin Kreber, 2006-11-10 Illustrates the scope of possibilities in interpreting and promoting research teaching synergies. This book also looks more explicitly at what institutions can do to promote two distinct forms of research based teaching. It construes research based teaching as student focused inquiry based learning. The SAGE Encyclopedia of Communication Research Methods Mike Allen, 2017-01-15 Communication research is evolving and changing in a world of online journals open access and new ways of obtaining data and conducting experiments via the Internet. Although there are generic encyclopedias describing basic social science research methodologies in general until now there has been no comprehensive A to Z reference work exploring methods specific to communication and media studies. Our entries authored by key figures in the field focus on special considerations when applied specifically to communication research accompanied by engaging examples from the literature of communication journalism and media studies. Entries cover every step of the research process from the creative development of research topics and questions to literature reviews selection of best methods whether quantitative qualitative or mixed for analyzing research results and publishing research findings whether in traditional media or via new media outlets. In addition to expected entries covering the basics of theories and methods traditionally used in communication research other entries discuss important trends influencing the future of that research including contemporary practical issues students will face in communication professions the influences of globalization on research use of new recording technologies in fieldwork and the challenges and opportunities related to studying online multi media environments. Email texting cellphone video and blogging are shown not only as topics of research but also as means of collecting and analyzing data. Still other entries delve into considerations of accountability copyright confidentiality data ownership and security privacy and other aspects of conducting an ethical research program. Features 652 signed entries are contained in an authoritative work spanning four volumes available in choice of electronic or print formats. Although organized A to Z front matter includes a Reader's Guide grouping entries thematically to help students interested in a specific aspect of communication research to more easily locate directly related entries. Back matter includes a Chronology of the development of the field of communication research a Resource Guide to classic books journals and associations a Glossary introducing the terminology of the field and a detailed Index. Entries conclude with References Further Readings and Cross References to related entries to guide students further in their research journeys. The Index Reader's Guide themes and Cross References

Wehlburg, 2010-04-19 General education has been an essential part of American higher education for a long time Unfortunately it is often seen as something to get out of the way so that the student can go on to take the more important courses within a chosen major This volume changes that perception Topics discussed include Integrated General Education A Brief Look Back Why are Outcomes So Difficult to Achieve Making General Education Matter Structures and Strategies Unifying the Undergraduate Curriculum Through Inquiry Guided Learning University of the Pacific s Bookend Seminars on a Good Society Core Curriculum Revision at TCU How Faculty Created and Are Maintaining the TCU Core Curriculum Creating an Integrative General Education The Bates Experience Building an Integrated Student Learning Outcomes Assessment for General Education Three Case Studies Meaningful General Education Assessment That is Integrated and Transformative Institutions of higher education have a responsibility to develop a meaningful general education curriculum that cultivates qualities of thinking communication and problem solving to name a few of the general education goals that many institutions share What is missing from many institutions though is the concept of integrating general education with the overall educational curriculum If this is done general education courses are no longer something to take quickly so they can be checked off instead they become part of the educational development of the student This integration benefits the student certainly but also the larger society baccalaureate graduates steeped in the liberal arts will become future leaders Having been prepared with a broad knowledge base our current students will be able to think more critically and make good use of information to solve problems that have not yet even been identified This is the 121st volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning which offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers Resources in Education ,1997 Applying the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning beyond the Individual Classroom Jennifer C. Friberg, Kathleen McKinney, 2019-08-29 A survey of exemplary SoTL research projects and the use of their results on a broader scale When the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning SoTL emerged it often concentrated on individual faculty practice in one classroom it is now however increasingly common to find work in SoTL focused more broadly SoTL studies may engage with a cluster of courses a program a particular population of students a pedagogical approach or a field all of which are represented in the essays collected here by authors from a diverse array of institutions and nations This volume features examples of SoTL research conducted in and applied to a variety of contexts and disciplines offering a theoretical framework for an expanded vision of SoTL one that moves beyond the individual classroom Educating Integrated Professionals: Theory and Practice on Preparation for the Professoriate Carol L. Colbeck, KerryAnn O'Meara, Ann E. Austin, 2008-04-11 There is a need for doctoral students to broaden their perspective on their own education so that they value teaching and service professional and community equally with research This volume explores two interrelated paths to that goal The first path encourages doctoral students and their faculty mentors to take advantage of the synergies among their teaching research and community service roles Involving students in research conducting research about one's teaching or collaborating with community partners and students to investigate and solve real world problems can enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of academic work The second path emphasizes connections between professional and academic aspects of faculty work Faculty members who integrate their disciplinary and professional work become adept at recognizing and solving ill defined problems skilled at understanding and responding to ethical questions and able to discover teach and apply knowledge with colleagues students and community partners Topics discussed include Professional Identity Development Theory and Doctoral Education Applying Lessons from Professional Education to the Preparation of the Professoriate Graduate Education and Community Engagement Networking to Develop a Professional Identity A Look at the First Semester Experience of Doctoral Students in Business Lost in Translation Learning Professional Roles Through the Situated Curriculum Strategies for Preparing Integrated Faculty The Center for the Integration of Research Teaching and Learning Career Preparation for Doctoral Students The University of Kansas History Department The authors consider the successes and failures of their case studies in the light of theories of identity development professionalization apprenticeship socialization mentoring social networks situated curriculum concurrent curricula and academic planning They illuminate some of the drawbacks of current education for the professoriate and at the same time point toward current programs and new possibilities for educating doctoral students who will begin their faculty careers ready to integrate teaching research and service This is the 113th volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning offering a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and on the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers

Identity, Learning, and the Liberal Arts Ned Scott Laff, 2005-10-19 This book argues that we must foster a conversation between those in liberal studies and those who work with student development theory This conversation reveals that the skills of academic inquiry inherent in liberal learning are the skills of personal development inherent in student development theory This issue tackles the ideas of liberal learning and outlines a pedagogical direction to realize them Series ed

Alternative Strategies for Evaluating Student Learning Michelle V. Achacoso, Marilla D. Svinicki, 2005-03-17 Although new forms of learning call for new forms of assessment many faculty struggle to find different ways of testing their students' achievements This issue introduces readers to both theory and practical examples of innovations in assessment in the college classroom Examples include authentic testing testing with multimedia portfolios visual synthesis and performance based testing among others Contributors also argue that student performance on exams can be improved by techniques that can be implemented both before and after the exam to make the students better learners This is the 100th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning Spirituality in Higher Education Sherry L. Hoppe, Bruce W. Speck, 2005 This issue looks at spirituality in higher education through a number of lenses examining what many view as trend towards incorporating spirituality back into the lives of students faculty and administrators Questions about meaning and purpose are as old as humans and in the earliest days of higher education the search for truth was the ultimate journey of the student Over the decades though the academy has often shunned the spiritual aspect of a student's education Whether that is to avoid controversy or to protect from acknowledging that all is not known there is a predisposition to avoid talking about spirituality in the academy Regardless the result is the creation of what T S Eliot called hollow men who live in this world but do not know why they are here and thus do not know how to live their lives This book is responding to a reawakening of desire to avoid such creatures The issue's purpose at least in a cursory way is to look at spirituality in academe through a number of lenses Composed of chapters from both faculty and administrators this volume offers insight into the critical need for spirituality in educating the whole student while recognizing that how spirituality is viewed and taught and experienced is intensely personal The goal is not to prescribe how spirituality should be integrated but to offer multiple options and perspectives Not only will readers learn about the complex and vital role of spirituality they will also be reminded that the quest for truth and meaning not the destination is what is vitally important in shaping discussions about spirituality This is the 104th issue of the Jossey-Bass quarterly support series New Directions for Teaching and Learning

Supplemental Instruction: New Visions for Empowering Student Learning Marion E. Stone, Glen Jacobs, 2006-07-24 This issue both introduces basic tenets of supplemental instruction to those who do not know it and brings those familiar with the method up to date on how far it has come and where it is headed in the future Jacket

Scholarship of Multicultural Teaching and Learning Matthew Kaplan, A. T. Miller, 2007-10 The desire to continue a quest for multiculturalism in postsecondary education burns bright on campuses across the country New legal decisions have made it possible for institutions to once again pursue a diverse student population at public universities As before faculty and administrators are searching for new and effective ways of infusing multicultural instruction into the everyday life of the institution This issue provides some very important innovative suggestions to support their quest Series editor

Enhancing Learning with Laptops in the Classroom Linda B. Nilson, Barbara E. Weaver, 2005-04-20 This issue is the first major publication on teaching with laptops in the classroom Its primary purpose is to show that university instructors make pedagogically productive and novel use of laptops in the classroom As the chapters illustrate laptops indeed offer rich new opportunities to make classes more student active thereby enhancing student engagement and learning Moreover these benefits can accrue without compromising the quality of student-instructor interaction or increasing the student workload The issue also has a timely secondary purpose to advise institutional leaders on how to make a laptop mandate successful at their university Clemson University's mandate has met with tremendous and documented success Their Laptop Faculty Development Program ensures that faculty interested in teaching with laptops receive extensive pedagogical as well as technical training before they take on a laptop course. Some of the more creative and effective laptop faculty are showcased in this volume. This is the 101st issue of the Jossey-Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning. Resources in Education, 1996
