As plastic surgeons, we seek to combine art and science to improve the results we see in clinical practice. Through our artistic sensibilities, we try to understand and obtain aesthetic results. Scientific analysis provides the data to predict which approaches will be successful and safe. Both art and science connote a high level of skill or mastery. At the present time, our literature is replete with descriptions of specific procedures for body contouring. However, there remains a need for a definitive reference describing the basic principles to address the complete scope of body contouring, including the postbariatric patient and their plastic surgery deformities. Dr. Shiffman and Dr. Di Giuseppe saw this need and sought to address the needs of plastic surgeons faced with the complexities of body contouring surgery. This is a comprehensive text aimed at providing multiple perspectives. The numerous sections, which include a posity and lipolysis, the breast, abdomen, chest, and buttocks, the extremities, and liposuction, offer various approaches from the foremost authors. Indeed, it is with a tremendous amount of skill and mastery that Dr. Shiffman and Dr. Di Giuseppe have successfully edited and collated the numerous contributions to this work. In addition, they have authored individually or in collaboration over a dozen of the 87 total chapters. Their combined work as editors and authors are evident throughout their text. The final result is a comprehensive contribution that will benefit all plastic surgeons seeking to improve their approach to body contouring.

Biosignal Processing and Computational Methods to Enhance Sensory Motor Neuroprosthetics Mitsuhiro Hayashibe, David Guiraud, Jose L. Pons, Dario Farina, 2016-01-22 Though there have been many developments in sensory motor prosthetics they have not yet reached the level of standard and worldwide use like pacemakers and cochlear implants One challenging issue in motor prosthetics is the large variety of patient situations which depending on the type of neurological disorder To improve neuroprosthetic performance beyond the current limited use of such systems robust bio signal processing and model based control involving actual sensory motor state with biosignal feedback would bring about new modalities and applications and could be a breakthrough toward adaptive neuroprosthetics Recent advances of Brain Computer Interfaces BCI now enable patients to transmit their intention of movement However the functionality and controllability of motor prosthetics itself can be further improved to take advantage of BCI interfaces In this Research Topic we welcome contribution of original research articles computational and experimental studies review articles and methodological advances related to biosignal processing that may enhance the functionality of sensory motor neuroprosthetics The scope of this topic includes but is not limited to studies aimed at enhancing 1 computational biosignal processing in EMG Electromyography EEG Electroencephalography and other modalities of biofeedback information 2 the computational method in modeling and control of sensory motor neuroprosthetics 3 the systematic functionality aiming to provide solutions for specific pathological movement disorders 4 human interfaces such as BCI but in the case of BCI study manuscripts should be experimental studies which are applied to sensory motor neuroprosthetics in patients with motor disabilities
