One Billion Hungry Can We Feed The World Author Gordon Conway Oct 201:

One Billion Hungry Gordon Conway, 2012-10-15 Hunger is a daily reality for a billion people More than six decades after the technological discoveries that led to the Green Revolution aimed at ending world hunger regular food shortages malnutrition and poverty still plague vast swaths of the world And with increasing food prices climate change resource inequality and an ever increasing global population the future holds further challenges In One Billion Hungry Sir Gordon Conway one of the world's foremost experts on global food needs explains the many interrelated issues critical to our global food supply from the science of agricultural advances to the politics of food security He expands the discussion begun in his influential The Doubly Green Revolution Food for All in the Twenty First Century emphasizing the essential combination of increased food production environmental stability and poverty reduction necessary to end endemic hunger on our planet Conway addresses a series of urgent questions about global hunger How we will feed a growing global population in the face of a wide range of adverse factors including climate change What contributions can the social and natural sciences make in finding solutions And how can we engage both government and the private sector to apply these solutions and achieve significant impact in the lives of the poor Conway succeeds in sharing his informed optimism about our collective ability to address these fundamental challenges if we use technology paired with sustainable practices and strategic planning Beginning with a definition of hunger and how it is calculated and moving through issues topically both detailed and comprehensive each chapter focuses on specific challenges and solutions ranging in scope from the farmer's daily life to the global movement of food money and ideas Drawing on the latest scientific research and the results of projects around the world Conway addresses the concepts and realities of our global food needs the legacy of the Green Revolution the impact of market forces on food availability the promise and perils of genetically modified foods agricultural innovation in regard to crops livestock pest control soil and water and the need to both adapt to and slow the rate of climate change One Billion Hungry will be welcomed by all readers seeking a multifaceted understanding of our global food supply food security international agricultural development and sustainability

The Reproach of Hunger David Rieff, 2015-10-06 Hailed as invaluable a substantial work of political thought New Statesman in a groundbreaking report based on years of reporting David Rieff assesses whether ending extreme poverty and widespread hunger is truly within our reach as is increasingly promised Can we provide enough food for nine billion people in 2050 especially the bottom poorest in the Global South Some of the most brilliant scientists world politicians and aid and development experts forecast an end to the crisis of massive malnutrition in the next decades The World Bank IMF and Western governments look to public private partnerships to solve the problems of access and the cost of food Philanthrocapitalists Bill Gates and Warren Buffett spend billions to solve the problem relying on technology And the international development Establishment gets publicity from stars Bob Geldorf George Clooney and Bono Hunger David Rieff writes is a political problem and fighting it means rejecting the fashionable consensus that only the private sector can act efficiently The New Yorker Rieff who has been studying and reporting on humanitarian aid and development for thirty years takes a careful look He cites climate change unstable governments that receive aid the cozy relationship between the philanthropic sector and giants like Monsanto that are often glossed over in the race to solve the crisis This is a stellar addition to the canon of development policy literature Publishers Weekly starred review The Reproach of Hunger is the most complete and informed description of the world's most fundamental question Can we feed the world's population Rieff answers a careful Yes and charts the path by showing how it will take seizing all opportunities technological cultural and political to wipe out famine and malnutrition

A billion hungry people Frederic Mousseau, 2009 The food price increases of 2007 and 2008 focused attention on a global food crisis that was already affecting more than 850 million people Even before the 2008 food riots some 16 000 children were dying every day from hunger related causes one every five seconds The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organisation FAO estimates that by the end of 2008 rising prices had added 109 million to the ranks of the hungry Today about one in six of the world's population goes short of food almost a billion people Although food prices fell in the final months of 2008 they remain above the long term trend and are likely to do so for the foreseeable future Two growing threats are likely to exacerbate the problem of hunger climate change is increasing the frequency and intensity of hazards such as floods drought and tropical cyclones that destroy crops livestock and livelihoods and the global recession looks set to further increase the number of people going hungry because of its impact on employment incomes and public spending The rapid and unpredictable fluctuations in food prices exacerbated by volatile oil markets and increasing weather hazards are a major challenge Poor consumers in developing countries cannot buy food when prices rise while sharply falling prices can destroy farmers livelihoods and result in uncertainty that deters them from investing in increased production

Can We Feed the World Without Destroying It? Eric Holt-Gimenez, 2019-01-04 Nearly a third of the world's population suffers from hunger or malnutrition Feeding them and the projected population of 10 billion people by 2050 has become a high profile challenge for states philanthropists and even the Fortune 500 This has unleashed a steady march of initiatives to double food production within a generation But will doing so tax the resources of our planet beyond its capacity In this sobering essay scholar practitioner Eric Holt-Gimenez argues that the ecological impact of doubling food production would be socially and environmentally catastrophic and would not feed the poor We have the technology resources and expertise to feed everyone What is needed is a thorough transformation of the global food regime one that increases equity while producing food and reversing agriculture's environmental impacts
