The papers are organized around the following topics: spatial data processing and data quality, graph data processing, data mining, privacy and semantic analysis, text and log data management, social networks, data mining and data streams, query processing, topic modeling, machine learning, recommendation systems, distributed data processing and applications, machine learning and optimization.

A Practical Guide to Event Promotion Nigel Jackson, Katie Angliss, 2017-07-14 This Practical Guide to Event Promotion offers the reader a short and succinct overview of the range of marketing communication materials from print to social marketing that can be used to promote an event successfully to the correct target markets. It includes invaluable advice on how to identify the type of communication tools most applicable to the type of event that is being promoted and its target market, how to effectively use and implement these useful tips, on things to avoid as well as suggested time frames to use before, during, and after the event. Examples of best practice and insights from events marketers are integrated throughout. Although full of practical information, a strong theoretical base underpins the advice included on how event managers can apply communication and persuasion theory to key audiences. This book will be a useful resource for Events Management students putting on an event as part of their course and for assessments, and those wanting to convert general theory into practical skills they will use in the workplace.

The Sports Strategist Irving Rein, Ben Shields, Adam Grossman, 2015 In the 750 billion dollar sports industry, winning on the field is the only driver that matters for off the field business success. Today's high performance sports business is more complex than ever before and presents new challenges to the industry at all levels. Sports organizations are fighting hard for the money and engagement of fans, media, and sponsors while facing unprecedented competition both domestically and internationally. The cost of doing business continues to rise while traditional revenue streams are under increased pressure. In The Sports Strategist: Developing Leaders for a High Performance Industry, authors Irving Rein, Ben Shields, and Adam Grossman demonstrate that relying too much on winning is a losing long term strategy for dealing with these challenges. Instead, they argue that sports organizations must focus on identifying and maximizing key factors that, unlike winning, can be controlled and shaped. By building a more well rounded business sports strategists will position themselves and their organizations for sustainable success in the industry Blending extensive industry experience and real world case studies with their academic expertise the authors arm readers with the combination of the necessary tools to help them make better strategic decisions Everyone from industry veterans to aspirational managers will learn how to design identities reinvigorate venue experiences manage narratives and maximize new technology in today s connected world In addition readers will explore how to implement business analytics build public support and apply ethics in decision making These techniques are vital to creating a successful sports organization that is ready to reap the benefits of winning when it does happen without having to suffer when it does not The demand for innovative leaders who can address these issues and make tough decisions on which challenges to prioritize has never been greater The Sports Strategist is an essential resource for anyone looking to thrive in the sports industry ZDNet Software
