Run to Glory and Profits David George Surdam,2013-10-01 The National Football League has long reigned as America's favorite professional sports league In its early days however it was anything but a dominant sports industry barely surviving World War II Its rise began after the war and the 1950s was a pivotal decade for the league Run to Glory and Profits tells the economic story of how in one decade the NFL transformed from having a modest following in the Northeast to surpassing baseball as this country's most popular sport To break from the margins of the sports landscape pro football brought innovation action skill and episodic suspense on any given Sunday These factors in turn drove attendance and rising revenues Team owners were quick to embrace television as a new medium to put the league in front of a national audience Based on primary documents David George Surdam provides an economic analysis in telling the business story behind the NFL's rise to popularity Did the league's vaunted competitive balance in the decade result from its more generous revenue sharing and its reverse order draft How did the league combat rival leagues such as the All America Football Conference and the American Football League Although strife between owners and players developed quickly pro football fans stayed loyal because the product itself remained so good

The Man Who Built the National Football League Chris Willis,2010-08-19 Founded in 1920 the National Football League chose famed athlete Jim Thorpe as its first president a position he held briefly until a successor was elected From 1921 to 1939 Joe F Carr guided the sport of professional football with intelligence hard work and a passion that built the foundation of what the NFL has become the number one sports organization in the world During his eighteen year tenure as NFL President Carr created the organization's first Constitution implemented the standard player's contract wrote the NFL's first ever Record and Fact Book helped split the NFL into two divisions and establish the NFL's World Championship Game started keeping league statistics and developed the NFL Draft But Carr's greatest achievement was creating a vision for the NFL as a big city sport By skillfully recruiting financially capable owners to operate NFL franchises in big market cities he created the solid foundation for the league's successful future While the sport has grown to unheard of heights Carr's name and accomplishments have been lost and forgotten The Man Who Built the National Football League Joe F Carr captures the life and career of this pivotal figure in professional sports chronicling the many achievements of a man whose vision helped shape what the NFL is today With unlimited access and complete cooperation from the Carr family including family interviews personal letters and family photos as well as NFL League Minutes Willis recounts the fascinating life and career of a man dedicated to the game

Jankowski,David C. Fuchs,1996-11-21 In recent years the media has been awash in exuberant tales of the arrival of the information superhighway when television will explode with exciting possibilities offering some 500 channels as well as a marriage of TV and computer that will provide on command access to the latest movies magazines newspapers books sports events stock exchange figures your bank account and much much more And the major TV networks pundits add will be doomed to extinction by this revolution in cable computers and fiber optics But in Television Today and Tomorrow Gene Jankowski former President and Chairman of the CBS Broadcast Group and David Fuchs also a former top executive at CBS tell a different story They predict a bumpy road ahead for the information superhighway and the major networks they say are abundantly healthy and will remain so well into the next century The information superhighway Jankowski and Fuchs admit will dramatically increase the distribution channels but it will have little impact on the amount of programming created and this may spell disaster The authors show how the networks began as a way to provide programs to local stations who could not afford to produce their own who in turn provided the distribution that gave networks access to mass audiences and ultimately large advertising dollars They then offer us an inside look at television production showing us for instance a veteran scriptwriter putting together a breakfast table scene for Cloud Nine to underscore how much effort goes into producing just two minutes of primetime programming They reveal that the present 20 channels require some 20 000 hours of programming each year which is more than all the Broadway plays produced in this century and they conclude that without a dramatic increase in programming which won't happen if only because of the very finite supply of talent the superhighway will be jammed bumper to bumper with reruns old movies and inexpensive programming aimed at tightly focused audiences narrowcasting as opposed to broadcasting This is hardly the bonanza the pundits have promised The authors point out that the media blitz about the new technology has hardly focused on programming or on funding or on what needs these 500 channels will fill The major networks on the other hand will remain the only means of reaching the whole country and the only channels that offer a full schedule of current live and original programs free of charge And thus they will continue to attract most of the audience of TV viewers The real loser in the cable revolution the authors contend is PBS whose role as an alternative to network TV has been usurped by cable stations such as The Discovery Channel and Nickelodeon This is a brass tacks look at television with an eye on the bottom line by two men who boast over sixty years of experience in the medium If you want to understand television in America where it came from and where it is going you will need to read this book
