Organizational Theory And Design 2nd Canadian Edition:

Devolution, Port Governance and Port Performance Mary R Brooks, Kevin Cullinane, 2006-11-13 The relationship between ports and governments has changed profoundly over the past quarter of a century. Many governments have sought to extract themselves from the business of port operations and in many cases the provision of port services has devolved to local governments, communities or private management and administration. As such, devolution implies a change in governance model. This trend raises questions about consequent performance. This issue examines the changed port management environment, focusing particularly on government policies such as devolution, regulatory reform and newly imposed governance models, all of which have exerted a significant influence over the nature of that changed environment. The issue is structured so as to first explore the devolution and port reform approaches for 14 countries or regions before examining how ports are governed and what the choice of governance might mean for their performance. Part I introduces the issue and provides a framework for defining the basic concepts involved in devolution; it paints a picture of the current port environment, its likely future evolution and the expected impact this will have on the functioning of ports. Part II examines the port industry in 14 countries or administrations and presents the thinking behind any devolution programs that have been implemented. Part III focuses on port governance and devolution generally and examines governance from both strategic management and economics perspectives, including topics such as governance models, supranational governance and stakeholder conflict. Part IV examines the measurement of port performance and closes by providing conclusions and a future research agenda. This issue will be of interest to port managers, government officials and academics alike. Examines the relationship between ports and governments with a focus on devolution. Divided into sections that provide an overview, evaluate the port industry, discuss port governance and suggest new measures of port performance. 14 countries or regions are addressed. The Organized Mind Daniel Levitin, 2015-01-29 Thought provoking and practical. Good advice based on sound neuroscientific principles. Sunday Times. In The Organized Mind. New York Times and Sunday Times bestselling author and neuroscientist Daniel Levitin offers solutions for the problems of information overload.

Overwhelmed by demands on your time? Baffled by the sheer volume of data? You're not alone. Even the smartest mind can't beat the organized mind when we're unable to make sense of it all: our creativity plummets, our decision making suffers and we grow absent minded. Nowadays we drown under emails, forever juggle six tasks at once and try to make complex decisions ever more quickly. This is information overload. Using a combination of academic research and examples from daily life, Daniel Levitin explains how to take back control of your life, from healthcare to online dating to raising kids, showing that the secret to success is always organization. You'll discover life-changing facts about how to make the most of your brain's daily processing limit. Why pressing Send or clicking Like are addictive. Why daydreaming is your brain at its most productive. What the most successful people keep in their drawer. Why multitasking is a bad way to do nearly everything In a world where information is power The Organized Mind holds the key to harnessing that information and making it work for you      Management Education in Canada Kristin S. Williams,Albert J Mills,Heidi Weigand,2025-05-23 Management Education in Canada Historical Reflections offers a fresh and critical look at the evolution of management education in Canada Nearly 25 years after the seminal work Capitalizing Knowledge by Barbara Austin this edited collection revisits and expands upon the debates that shaped the field while introducing new perspectives and overlooked histories Featuring ten scholarly essays from leading academics this volume explores a range of critical and historiographic approaches to management education highlighting the ways in which history is written privileged and at times neglected Through a variety of themes including the gendered experiences of female Ph D graduates Africentric and Indigenous leadership approaches and the role of globalization in shaping management curricula the book prompts readers to reflect on the past present and future of management education in Canada Chapters cover topics such as the influence of the Administrative Sciences Association of Canada the underrepresentation of French language business education and the critical interrogation of management textbooks Together these chapters offer a rich and comprehensive analysis of the cultural institutional and intellectual forces shaping the discipline This volume will engage scholars educators and students in business schools faculties of management and those interested in the broader history of higher education as well as anyone seeking to understand the historical development of management education in Canada It is an essential contribution to the ongoing conversation about what management education has been and what it could become      Organization
