You Herd Me! Colin Cowherd,2013-11-19 There are really two games the one you see and the one you don t The way I see it the best way to use access to both worlds is to illuminate and reveal not idolize and adore It s better to be wrong than to be played for a fool Colin Cowherd In this age of billion dollar athletic marketing campaigns feel good philosophy with no connection to reality and a Sports Media echo chamber that s all too eager swallow whatever idiotic notion happens to be in vogue at the moment it s tough to find people who aren t afraid to say what they re really thinking But that s where Colin Cowherd comes in As his millions of fans on ESPN Radio and ESPNU already know Colin is the rare sports analyst who s brave or crazy enough to speak his mind even if it pisses some people off Of course it helps that a lot of what Colin has to say is simply hilarious Lots of writers can tell you about Boston s storied sports history But how many can tell you why the city of Boston is America s five year old Lots of writers will brag about the stuff they got right but how many will happily list all the calls they got completely and utterly wrong Whether he s pointing out the stupidity of conspiracy theories explaining why media bias isn t nearly as big a deal as many assume or calling out those who prize short term wins over sustainability Colin is smart thought provoking and laugh out loud funny Some of the questions he s not afraid to ask in You Herd Me include Is Tiger Woods really a sex addict or does he just have good PR Is work life balance really the ideal we should all strive for or is that just a way for people feel better about mediocrity Is talent really all it s cracked up to be or can too much talent actually be counterproductive Is the X games really a sport or would we all be better off if we admitted it s something else entirely Is Hell really a supernatural place of fire and brimstone or is it actually just another word for living in Tampa Unapologetically entertaining and packed with behind the scenes insights you won t get anywhere else You Herd Me is unlike any other sports

Friedman,2014-07-14 Barton Friedman demonstrates the ways in which English men of letters in the nineteenth century attempted to grasp the dynamics of history and to fashion order however fragile out of its apparent chaos. The authors he discusses—Blake, Scott, Hazlitt, Carlyle, Dickens, and Hardy—found in the French Revolution an event more compelling as a paradigm of history than their own Glorious Revolution. To them the French Revolution seemed universally significant, a microcosm in short. For these writers, maintaining the distinction between history and fiction was less important than making sense of epochal historical events in symbolic terms. Their works on the French Revolution and the Napoleonic Wars occupy the boundary between history and fiction, and Fabricating History advances the current lively discussion of that boundary. At the same time, this work explores questions about narrative strategies as they are shaped by or shape events. Narratives incorporate the ideological and metaphysical preconceptions that the authors bring with them to their writing. This is not to argue, as Professor Friedman says, that historical narratives are only about the mind manufacturing them or more narrowly yet about themselves as mere linguistic constructs. They illumine both the time and place they seek to re-create and, if by indirection, the time and place of the mind thinking them into being. Originally published in 1988, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.
