Wladimir Andreff,Stefan Szymanski,2006 The editors should be commended for taking on such a big task and succeeding so well This book should be in the library of every institution where students have to write a paper that may be related to sport or on the shelf of any lecturer teaching economics or public finance who has even a remote interest in sport The material is very accessible and useful in many different settings Ruud H Koning Jahrb cher f National konomie u Statistik Edward Elgar s brilliant market niche is identifying a topic in economics finding editors who know the area backwards and challenging them to assemble the best cross section of relevant articles either already published or newly commissioned Handbook on the Economics of Sport is Edward Elgar at its very best If you love economics you ll find many fascinating insights here if you love sport but know little economics then this book is mostly accessible and will teach you a lot and if you are a sports mad economist then you will be in hog heaven Furthermore if like this reviewer you are broadly very sceptical about the reports consultants produce for governments on the supposed economic windfall from hosting a big event or subsidising a stadium then you will get a lot of good counter arguments in this volume Indeed there are several chapters on the above theme that I m sure I ll be copying frequently to government officials in years to come The demand for sport is a fascinating subject and it is hard to pick out just one chapter from the second section Read them all they make a wonderful 65 page treat Part VI was a

And there are real gems in some of the contributions British Journal on the Economics of Sport This very interesting and Mediaweek ,1992 New Forms of Consumption Mark Gottdiener,2000-11-01 Consumption as a field of cultural studies overlaps with theories of postmodernism the social construction of self commodification in late capitalism and the role of mass media in daily life New forms of consumption such as those facilitated by cyberspace themed environments the commodification of sex and the increasing role of leisure in society all play new and interesting roles in daily life that combine consumerism with the most contemporary social forms This collection of essays examines the recent ways in which consumerism has been approached by cultural studies with special emphasis given to these and other newly emerging topics

The book is divided into three parts The first part provides a theoretical overview of consumption studies dealing with classical and more contemporary approaches in light of the debate between advocates and critics of postmodernism In this section there are papers on McDonaldization tourism and cultural studies and the Theory of Shopping The second part emphasizes empirical studies of the commodification process Papers address the transformation of womenOs bodies and the mass commodification of milk the creation of the toddler as a subject and the commodification of childhood the commodification of sports and the commodification of rock music The third section of the book explores new forms of consumption on a more detailed and concentrated level Papers in this section include the rise of sex tourism as a global industry the commodification of the sacred and the emergence of new consumer spaces in the city An introduction by the editor delineates the advantages of his approach to new forms of consumption based squarely in the emerging issues of cultural studies debates transcending postmodernism and the society of the spectacle
