EFA has been a top priority for governments and intergovernmental development agencies for the last twenty years. So far, the global EFA movement has placed its principal focus on providing quality universal primary education (UPE) for all children by 2015. The latest addition to The Open and Flexible Learning series, this book addresses the new challenges created by both the successes and the failures of the UPE campaign. This book advocates new approaches for providing access to secondary education for today's rapidly growing population of children and young adults and examines the creation and expansion of Mega Schools which combine distance learning and community support and have a proven track record of increasing access at scale, how to prepare the ten million new teachers that are required to achieve Education for All by 2015 by focusing on classroom-based in-service training strategies for using technology to scale up distance education cost effectively, the creation of a twenty-first century educational ecosystem that integrates open schooling and teacher education with communities and their school systems, successful examples of open schools and teacher education programmes operating at scale around the world. Readers will be delighted to find that Sir John Daniel, bestselling Routledge author of Mega Universities and Knowledge Media, delivers another insightful and practical book on educational technology. Mega Schools Technology and Teachers will be of interest to all who are concerned by the central educational challenge of our times: providing secondary education to tens of millions of young people around the world. Mega-universities and Knowledge Media John Daniel, 2013-05-13 A discussion of how the knowledge media can contribute to the renewal of universities, particularly through the development of distance education. It looks at universities which have risen to the challenges of cost and accessibility using technology. Teachers and Technology, 1995-10 Shows that helping schools to make the connection between teachers and technology may be one of the most important steps to making the most of past, present and future investments in educational technology and in our children's future. Addresses issues such as potential of technology in education, federal support, use of technology to enhance instruction, assisting teachers with the daily tasks of teaching, what technologies do schools own and how they are used, technology-related training programs and other related issues. Tables and figures. Learning and Teaching on the World Wide Web Christopher R. Wolfe, 2001-03-21 This book is about using the Internet as a teaching tool.
