The Past as Text Gabrielle M. Spiegel,1999-11-08 This study of familiar medieval histories and chronicles argues that the historian should be aware of the discursive nature literary modes and ideological investments of such texts as well as the social circumstances to which they were applied and by which they were generated Postmodernism has challenged historians to look at historical texts in a new way and to be skeptical of the claim that one can confidently retrieve fact from historical writings In The Past as Text historian Gabrielle M Spiegel sets out to read medieval histories and chronicles in light of the critical theoretical problems raised by postmodernism At the same time she urges a method of analysis that enables the reader to recognize these texts simultaneously as artifice and as works deeply embedded in a historically determinate knowable social world Beginning with a theoretical basis for the study of medieval historiography Spiegel demonstrates her theory in practice offering readings of medieval histories and chronicles as literary social and political constructions The study insightfully concludes that historians should be equally aware of the discursive nature literary modes and ideological investments of such texts and the social circumstances to which they were applied and by which they were generated Arguing for the social logic of the text Spiegel provides historians with a way to retrieve the social significance and conceptual claims produced by these medieval or any historical writings

Imagined Histories Anthony Molho, Gordon S. Wood, 2018-06-05 This collection of essays by twenty one distinguished American historians reflects on a peculiarly American way of imagining the past At a time when history writing has changed dramatically the authors discuss the birth and evolution of historiography in this country from its origins in the late nineteenth century through its present more cosmopolitan character In the book's first part concerning recent historiography are chapters on exceptionalism gender economic history social theory race and immigration and multiculturalism Authors are Daniel Rodgers Linda Kerber Naomi Lamoreaux Dorothy Ross Thomas Holt and Philip Gleason The three American centuries are discussed in the second part with chapters by Gordon Wood George Fredrickson and James Patterson The third part is a chronological survey of non American histories including that of Western civilization ancient history the middle ages early modern and modern Europe Russia and Asia Contributors are Eugen Weber Richard Saller Gabrielle Spiegel Anthony Molho Philip Benedict Richard Kagan Keith Baker Joseph Zizak Volker Berghahn Charles Maier

Martin Malia and Carol Gluck Together these scholars reveal the unique perspective American historians have brought to the past of their own nation as well as that of the world Formerly writing from a conviction that America had a singular destiny American historians have gradually come to share viewpoints of historians in other countries about which they write The result is the virtual disappearance of what was a distinctive American voice That voice is the subject of this book

Mitteilungen zur Geschichte der Medizin, der Naturwissenschaften und der Technik, 1920 Blindness and Therapy in Late Medieval French and Italian Poetry Julie Singer, 2011 This book argues that late medieval love poets from Petrarch to Machaut and Charles d'Orléans exploit scientific models as a broad framework within which to redefine the limits of the lyric subject and his body Just as humoral theory depends upon principles of likes and contraries in order to heal poetry makes possible a parallel therapeutic system in which verbal oppositions and substitutions counter or rewrite received medical wisdom The specific case of blindness a disability that according to the theories of love that predominated in the late medieval West foreclosed the possibility of love serves as a laboratory in which to explore poets circumvention of the logical limits of contemporary medical theory Reclaiming the power of remedy from physicians these late medieval French and Italian poets prompt us to rethink not only the relationship between scientific and literary authority at the close of the middle ages but more broadly speaking the very notion of therapy From publisher's website Fordham Raymond A.
