'Race,' Space and Multiculturalism in Northern England Shamim Miah, Pete Sanderson, Paul Thomas, 2020-06-02 This book challenges the narrative of Northern England as a failed space of multiculturalism drawing on a historically contextualised discussion of ethnic relations to argue that multiculturalism has been more successful and locally situated than these assumptions allow The authors examine the interplay between race space and place to analyse how profound economic change the evolving nature of the state individual racism and the local creation and enactment of multiculturalist policies have all contributed to shaping the trajectory of ethnic faith identities and inter community relations at a local level In doing so the book analyses both change and continuity in discussion of and national local state policy towards ethnic relations particularly around the supposed segregation integration dichotomy and the ways in which racialised events are perceived and identities are created and reflected in state policy operations Drawing on the authors long involvement in empirical research policy and practice around ethnicity race and racism in the Northern England they effectively support critical and situated analysis of controversial racialised issues and set these geographically specific findings in the context of wider international experiences of and tensions around growing ethnic diversity in the context of profound economic and social changes

Go home? Hannah Jones, Yasmin Gunaratnam, Gargi Bhattacharyya, William Davies, Sukhwant Dhaliwal, Kirsten Forkert, Emma Gleadhill, Roiyah Saltus, 2017-03-31 In July 2013 the UK government arranged for a van to drive through parts of London carrying the message In the UK illegally GO HOME or face arrest This book tells the story of what happened next The vans were short lived but they were part of an ongoing trend in government sponsored communication designed to demonstrate toughness on immigration The authors set out to explore the effects of such performances on policy on public debate on pro migrant and anti racist activism and on the everyday lives of people in Britain This book presents their findings and provides insights into the practice of conducting research on such a charged and sensitive topic An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence

Social Class in the 21st Century Mike Savage, 2015-11-05 A fresh take on social class from the experts behind the BBC's Great British Class Survey Why does social class matter more than ever in Britain today How has the meaning of class changed What does this mean for social mobility and inequality In this book Mike Savage and the team of sociologists responsible for the Great British Class Survey look beyond the labels to explore how and why our society is changing and what this means for the people who find themselves in the margins as well as in the centre Their new conceptualization of class is based on the distribution of three kinds of capital economic inequalities in income and wealth social the different kinds of people we know and cultural the ways in which our leisure and cultural preferences are exclusive and provides incontrovertible evidence that class is as powerful and relevant today as it's ever been

Violent Ignorance Hannah Jones, 2021-01-28 An elected politician is assassinated in the street by a terrorist associated with extreme political groups and the national response is to encourage picnics Thousands of people are held in prison like conditions without judicial oversight or any time limit on their sentence An attempt to re assert national sovereignty and borders leads thousands of citizens to register for dual citizenship with other countries some overcoming family associations with genocide in their second country of nationality to do so This is life in the UK today How then are things still continuing as normal How can we confront these phenomena and why do we so often refuse to What are the practices that help us to accommodate the unconscionable How might we contend with the horrors that meet us each day rather than becoming desensitized to them Violent Ignorance sets out to examine these questions through an understanding of how the past persists in the present how trauma is silenced or reappears and how we might reimagine identity and connection in ways that counter rather than ignore historic violence In particular Hannah Jones shows how border controls and enforcement and its corollary racism and violence have shifted over time Drawing on thinkers from John Berger to Ben Okri from Audre Lorde to Susan Sontag the book questions what it means to belong and discusses how hierarchies of belonging are revealed by what we can see and what we can ignore

Race and the Cultural Industries Anamik Saha,2018-01-08 Studies of race and media are dominated by textual approaches that explore the politics of representation But there is little understanding of how and why representations of race in the media take the shape that they do How one might ask is race created by cultural industries In this important new book Anamik Saha encourages readers to focus on the production of representations of racial and ethnic minorities in film television music and the arts His interdisciplinary approach combines critical media studies and media industries research with postcolonial studies and critical race perspectives to reveal how political economic forces and legacies of empire shape industrial cultural production and in turn media discourses around race Race and the Cultural Industries is required reading for students and scholars of media and cultural studies as well as anyone interested in why historical representations of the Other persist in the media and how they are to be challenged

Reimagining the State Davina Cooper,Nikita Dhawan,Janet Newman,2019-07-30 This book examines what value if any the state has for the pursuit of progressive politics and how it might need to be reimagined and remade to deliver transformative change Is it possible to reimagine the state in ways that open up projects of political transformation This interdisciplinary collection provides alternative perspectives to the antistatism of much critical writing and contemporary political movement activism Contributors explore ways of reimagining the state that attend critically to the capitalist neoliberal gendered and racist conditions of contemporary politics yet seek to hold onto the state in the process Drawing on postcolonial poststructuralist feminist queer Marxist and anarchist thinking they consider how states might be reread and reclaimed for radical politics At the heart of this book is state plasticity the capacity of the state conceptually and materially to take different forms This plasticity is central to transformational thinking and practice and to the conditions and labour that allow it to take place But what can reimagining do and what difficulties does it confront This book will appeal to academics and research students concerned with critical and transformative approaches to state theory particularly in governance studies politics and political theory socio legal studies international relations geography gender sexuality cultural studies and anthropology
