Gender Trouble Makers Jennifer Rothchild, 2007-05-07 International development efforts aimed at improving girls lives and education have been well intended somewhat effective but ultimately short sighted and incomplete This is because international development efforts often operate under a reductive understanding of the term gender and how it influences the lives of girls and boys Gender is more commonly conceived by international efforts as characteristics which are ascribed to girls as norms for behaviour In particular the analysis in Gender Trouble Makers focuses on the social constructions of gender and the ways in which gender was reinforced and maintained through a case study in rural Nepal In developing countries like Nepal promoting access to and participation in existing formal education programme is clearly necessary but it is not in itself sufficient to transform gender power relations in the broader society When gender is properly addressed as a process then all stakeholders involved researchers governmental officials and community members can begin to understand and devise more effective ways to increase both girl and boy students enrollment participation and success in school

Towards A Democratic Nepal Mahendra Lawoti, 2005-02-17 Providing a comprehensive critique of the Constitution adopted in 1990 this book identifies it as an important factor in the exclusion of various ethnic and minority groups It examines the causes for the lack of democratic consolidation in Nepal and outlines alternative institutions that can give voice to the various socio cultural groups in the country Dr Lawoti makes a case for setting up a new Constituent Assembly and for following the principle of self determination to reform the polity He also makes several important recommendations for the construction of an inclusive and democratic Nepal

Conflict, Education and People's War in Nepal Sanjeev Rai,2018-02-19 This book presents an overview of the democracy movement and the history of education in Nepal It shows how schools became the battleground for the state and the Maoists as well as captures emerging trends in the field challenges for the state and negotiations with political commitments It looks at the factors that contributed to the conflict and studies the politics of the region alongside gender and identity dynamics One of the first studies on the subject the book highlights how conflict and education are intrinsically linked in Nepal It illustrates how schools became the centre of attention between warring groups and how they were used for political meetings and recruitment of fighters during the political transitions in a contested terrain in South Asia It brings to the fore incidents of abduction and killing of teachers and students and the use of children as porters for arms and ammunitions Drawing extensively on both primary and secondary sources and qualitative analyses the book provides the key to a complex web of relationships among the stakeholders during conflict and also models of education in post conflict situations This book will interest scholars and researchers in education politics peace and conflict studies sociology development studies social work strategic and security studies contemporary history international relations and Nepal and South Asian studies

Locating the Field Simon Coleman,Peter Collins,2020-09-09 Are reports of the death of conventional fieldwork in anthropology greatly exaggerated

This book takes a critical look at the latest developments and key issues in fieldwork. The nature of locality itself is problematic for both research subjects and fieldworkers on the grounds that it must now be maintained and represented in relation to widening and fragmenting social frames and networks. Such developments have raised questions concerning the nature of ethnographic presence and scales of comparison. From the social space of a cybercafe to cities in India, the UK and South Africa, among others, this book features a wide range of ethnographic studies that provide new ways of looking at the concepts of locality and site. It shows that rather than taking key fieldwork processes such as globalization and mobility for granted, anthropologists are well placed to examine and critique the totalizing assumptions behind these notions.
