Nepali Class 9 Guide 2013:

Gender Trouble Makers Jennifer Rothchild, 2007-05-07 International development efforts aimed at improving girls' lives and education have been well intended somewhat effective but ultimately short sighted and incomplete. This is because international development efforts often operate under a reductive understanding of the term gender and how it influences the lives of girls and boys. Gender is more commonly conceived by international efforts as characteristics which are ascribed to girls as norms for behaviour. In particular the analysis in Gender Trouble Makers focuses on the social constructions of gender and the ways in which gender was reinforced and maintained through a case study in rural Nepal. In developing countries like Nepal promoting access to and participation in existing formal education programme is clearly necessary but it is not in itself sufficient to transform gender power relations in the broader society. When gender is properly addressed as a process then all stakeholders involved researchers governmental officials and community members can begin to understand and devise more effective ways to increase both girl and boy students enrollment participation and success in school.

Conflict, Education and People's War in Nepal Sanjeev Rai, 2018-02-19 This book presents an overview of the democracy movement and the history of education in Nepal. It shows how schools became the battleground for the state and the Maoists as well as captures emerging trends in the field challenges for the state and negotiations with political commitments. It looks at the factors that contributed to the conflict and studies the politics of the region alongside gender and identity dynamics. One of the first studies on the subject the book highlights how conflict and education are intrinsically linked in Nepal. It illustrates how schools became the centre of attention between warring groups and how they were used for political meetings and recruitment of fighters during the political transitions in a contested terrain in South Asia. It brings to the fore incidents of abduction and killing of teachers and students and the use of children as porters for arms and ammunitions. Drawing extensively on both primary and secondary sources and qualitative analyses the book provides the key to a complex web of relationships among the stakeholders during conflict and also models of education in post conflict situations. This book will interest scholars and researchers in education politics peace and conflict studies sociology development studies social work strategic and security studies contemporary history international relations and the country through legal systems medical regimes and social institutions The period after the 1990 democratic movement the subsequent political transformation in the aftermath of the Maoist insurgency and the writing of the new constitution has seen an increase in public discussion about sexual violence The State has brought in a slew of legislation and action plans to address this problem And yet impunity for perpetrators remains intact and justice elusive What are the structures that enable such impunity What can be done to radically transform these How must States understand the search for justice for victims and survivors of sexual violence This volume addresses these and related issues Published by Zubaan Walford's Guide

Adventures in Aidland David Mosse,2011-04-01 Anthropological interest in new subjects of research and contemporary knowledge practices has turned ethnographic attention to a wide ranging variety of professional fields Among these the encounter with international development has perhaps been longer and more intimate than any of the others Anthropologists have drawn critical attention to the interfaces and social effects of development s discursive regimes but oddly enough have paid scant attention to knowledge producers themselves despite anthropologists being among them This is the focus of this volume It concerns the construction and transmission of knowledge about global poverty and its reduction but is equally interested in the social life of development professionals in the capacity of ideas to mediate relationships in networks of experts and communities of aid workers and in the dilemmas of maintaining professional identities Going well beyond obsolete debates about pure and applied anthropology the book examines the transformations that occur as social scientific concepts and practices cross and re cross the boundary between anthropological and policy making knowledge
