American Special Education Gerard Giordano, 2007 This book is an account of the epic struggle for special education in America's schools It chronicles the actions of community leaders families caregivers instructors physicians scientists lawyers judges lawmakers businesspersons journalists social activists and persons with disabilities It details the creation of facilities in which special learners would be safe productive independent respected and self fulfilled The book discusses techniques for assessing the presence scope and etiology of disabilities Finally American Special Education describes novel sometimes expensive and frequently controversial interventions and places each development within the remarkable confluence of social and political circumstances that propelled the transformation of special education

Infant Crying C.F.Z. Boukydis, B.M. Lester, 2012-12-06 The cries of infants and children are familiar to essentially all adults and we all have our own common sense notions of the meanings of various cries at each age level As is often the case in the study of various aspects of human behavior we often investigate what seems self evident to the general public For example if an infant cries he or she needs attention if the cry is different than usual he or she is sick and when we are upset by other matters children's crying can be very annoying As a pediatric clinician often faced with discussing with parents their concerns or lack of them with respect to their children's crying these usual commonsense interpretations were frequently inadequate As this book illustrates when we investigate such everyday behaviors as children's crying and adults responses to crying the nature of the problem becomes surprisingly complex As a pediatrician working in the newborn nursery early in my career I knew from pediatric textbooks and from nursery nurses that newborn infants with high piercing cries were often abnormal In order to teach this interesting phenomenon to others and to understand under what circumstances it occurred I found I needed to know what constituted a high pitched cry or even a normal cry for that matter and how often this occurred with sick infants Certainly I saw sick infants who did not have high pitched cries but I still wondered if their cries were deviant in some other way theorists have addressed within object relational perspectives Via the notion of selving Fast likewise brings fresh insight to a host of issues that have engaged psychoanalysts and developmental psychologists in recent years These topics include the place of bodily experience in a relational model of mind the organization of self as simultaneously individual and relational the formulation of a constructivist model of psychic structure among others Selving is not only a lucid demonstration of how a relational theory of self can reorder clinical observations in conceptually and therapeutically illuminating ways It is also a convincing demonstration of how a constructivist model emphasizing the interactive nature of meaning making provides bridges to Piagetian theory developmental research and observational infancy studies The International Journal of
