Networks Of Democracy Lessons From Kosovo For Afghanistan Iraq And Beyond:

Networks of Democracy Anne Holohan, 2005 Indeholder en beskrivelse og analyse af den måde hvorpå internationale organisationer og forskellige Non Governments Organizations NGO'er samarbejder på i Kosovo Samarbejdet sker i et stort netværk hvori alle de forskellige myndigheder indgår FN OSCE EU NGO politiske og lokale myndigheder i Kosovo Anvendelse af moderne kommunikationsmidler binder de forskellige dele af netværket sammen således at alle deltagere hurtigt og uformelt kan kontakte hinanden og dermed koordinere indsatsen og holde hinanden indbyrdes underrettet Sårligt deltagelsen af forskellige lokale myndigheder i dette netværk og anvendelse af et fælles og simpelt kommunikationsmiddel f.eks mobiltelefoner er afgørende for en positiv udvikling Denne model har efter forfatterens opfattelse ført til gode resultater og bliver anvendt i både Irak og Afghanistan Dette finder efter forfatterens opfattelse ikke sted og er derfor en medvirkende årsag til den manglende positive udvikling af krisen i Irak og Afghanistan

Post-Conflict Studies Chip Gagnon, Keith Brown, 2014-07-11 This book examines how the violence of conflict is transformed in the post conflict period Post conflict studies seek to illuminate theorise and narrate the processes by which societies transition from periods of overt and violent conflict to periods of relative stability and peace Most of the research carried out on post conflict societies has taken place within disciplinary bounds In contrast this volume breaches those boundaries though each author is grounded in a particular discipline the chapters have been written in a spirit of interdisciplinarity The focus of the volume is how the violence of conflict is transformed in the post conflict period into processes that the editors have categorised as criminalisation medicalisation and missionisation Comprised of essays written by a diverse group of scholars and activists from anthropology political science international relations law education religion and military history each section of the book looks at the concept of post conflict in a way that problematises its common usage and highlights the importance of strongly interdisciplinary research into post conflict societies This book will be of interest to students of war and conflict studies peace studies security studies and IR in general

Decentralisation and the Management of Ethnic Conflict Aisling Lyon, 2015-10-30 Ethnic inequalities in divided societies can exacerbate social divisions and lead to conflict Reducing these inequalities could have a de-escalating effect yet there is little consensus on how this can be achieved most effectively and sustainably Decentralisation is held to improve inter ethnic relations in multi ethnic states by allowing territorially concentrated groups greater autonomy over their own affairs and the case of the Republic of Macedonia offers an example of the successes and failings of decentralisation Decentralisation and the Management of Ethnic Conflict offers new insight into the dynamics of conflict management through decentralisation using an in depth case study of decentralisation in the Republic of Macedonia between 2005 and 2012 Guided by the concept of horizontal inequalities the volume identifies the factors which influenced the decision to devolve responsibilities to the municipalities after 2001 Taking an integrative approach to studying the political administrative and fiscal dimensions of decentralisation and its implementation the book investigates whether these institutional reforms have indeed contributed to the reduction of inequalities between Macedonia's ethnic groups and what the obstacles were in those areas in which decentralisation has not reached its full potential. The key lesson of the Macedonian case is that attempts to solve internal self-determination conflicts through decentralisation will fail if local self-governance exists only in form but not in substance. This book contributes to a more nuanced understanding of the challenges facing different forms of decentralisation in the long term and as such represents a significant contribution to Conflict Studies, Development Studies and Political Science more generally.

The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber, 2011-01-15. Emergent technologies are pushing the boundaries of how both qualitative and quantitative researchers practice their craft and it has become clear these changes are dramatically altering research design from the questions researchers ask and the ways they collect data to what they even consider data. Gathering a broad range of new developments in one place, The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research offers comprehensive up-to-date thinking on technological innovations. In addition to addressing how to effectively apply new technologies such as the internet, mobile technologies, geospatial technologies, GPS, and the incorporation of computer-assisted software programs, CAQDAS, to qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods approaches to research projects, many chapters provide in-depth examples of practices within both disciplinary and interdisciplinary environments and outside the academic world in multi-media laboratories and research institutes. Not only an authoritative view of cutting-edge technologies and their applications, the Handbook examines the costs and benefits of utilizing new technologies on the research process, the potential misuse of these techniques for methods practices, and the ethical and moral dimensions of emergent technologies, especially with regard to issues of surveillance and privacy. The Handbook of Emergent Technologies in Social Research is an essential resource for research methods courses in various fields including the social sciences, education, communications, computer science, and health services, and an indispensable guide for social researchers looking to incorporate emerging technologies into their methods and practice.

Shaping Peace in Kosovo Gëzim Visoka, 2017-04-05. This book explores the prospects and limits of international intervention in building peace and creating a new state in an ethnically divided society and fragmented international order. The book offers a critical account of the international missions in Kosovo and traces the effectiveness of fluid forms of interventionism. It also explores the co-optation of peace by ethno-nationalist groups and explores how their contradictory perception of peace produced an ungovernable peace which has been manifested with intractable ethnic antagonisms, state capture, and ignorance of the root causes, drivers, and consequences of the conflict. Under these conditions, prospects for emancipatory peace have not come from external actors, ethno-nationalist elite, and critical resistance movements but from local and everyday acts of peace formation and agnostic forms for reconciliation. The book proposes an emancipatory agenda for peace in Kosovo embedded on post-ethnic politics and joint commitments to peace a comprehensive agenda for reconciliation people centred security and peace enabling external assistance

Peacebuilding in Practice Adam Moore, 2013-07-12 In November 2007 Adam Moore was conducting fieldwork in Mostar when the southern Bosnian city was rocked by two days of violent clashes between Croat and Bosniak youth It was not the city's only experience of ethnic conflict in recent years Indeed Mostar's problems are often cited as emblematic of the failure of international efforts to overcome deep divisions that continue to stymie the postwar peace process in Bosnia Yet not all of Bosnia has been plagued by such troubles Mostar remains mired in distrust and division but the Brcko District in the northeast corner of the country has become a model of what Bosnia could be Its multiethnic institutions operate well compared to other municipalities and are broadly supported by those who live there it also boasts the only fully integrated school system in the country What accounts for the striking divergence in postwar peacebuilding in these two towns Moore argues that a conjunction of four factors explains the contrast in outcomes in Mostar and Brcko The design of political institutions the sequencing of political and economic reforms local and regional legacies from the war and the practice and organization of international peacebuilding efforts in the two towns Differences in the latter in particular have profoundly shaped relations between local political elites and international officials Through a grounded analysis of localized peacebuilding dynamics in these two cities Moore generates a powerful argument concerning the need to rethink how peacebuilding is done that is a shift in the habitus or culture that governs international peacebuilding activities and priorities today

Rebuilding Sustainable Communities in Iraq Adenrele Awotona, 2009-05-27 The scene in Iraq is most troubling and further failure therein especially failure in sustainable reconstruction will compound the tragedy and bring grievous harm to too many in Iraq the United States the Middle East and the Western world Yet the current efforts at reconstruction cannot succeed as we seem to be making many of the same mistakes that were made post invasion Simply put a national occupying power cannot reconstruct a massive societal vacuum by working only top down Reconstruction is not the simple reversal of destruction Sustainability requires serious localized reconstitution of localized community infrastructure Accordingly in order to explore how Iraqi communities could be rebuilt in a manner that promotes social justice economic and political sustainability and the full participation of all stakeholders the Center for Rebuilding Sustainable Communities after Disasters at the University of Massachusetts at Boston USA hosted a four day international conference of Iraqi and international scholars and practitioners in July 2007 This volume collects some of the papers that were presented at the conference Amongst the topics that the contributing authors have explored are the following the role of organizations and institutions in defining strategies for sustainable rebuilding of community rebuilding the Iraqi Oil Industry and successful project strategies in Iraq's Kurdistan region The book concludes with a presentation of a number of international perspectives and their lessons for Iraq These studies spring from Afghanistan the United States of America and Africa

Community, Competition and Citizen Science Asst Prof Anne Holohan, 2013-12-06 Drawing on face to face and online ethnographic survey and interview data with participants in distributed computing projects around the world this book sheds light on the organizational and social structures of voluntary distributed computing projects communities and teams with close attention to questions of motivation in projects that offer little or no traditional forms of reward either financially or in terms of participants careers With its focus on non market non hierarchical cooperation this book is a case study of networked individuals around the world who are part of a new social production of information Interim Governments

Karen Guttieri, Jessica Piombo, 2007 This edited volume by Karen Guttieri and Jessica Piombo explores various aspects of the newly emerging range of interim regimes focusing on issues of legitimacy conflict management and the increasing participation of the international community in transitions from war to peace Through a set of theoretical and case study chapters they and the volume's contributing authors ask and answer key questions What sorts of interim governments are in use around the world today and how do they affect the quality of regime that results once the interim period has ended How does international involvement affect the balance of power between domestic elites How does the type of interim regime affect the nature of the post transition government Is democracy always the outcome Timely insightful and compelling Interim Governments provides important insights in a world where terms such as regime change and nation building have become common currency and will be a valuable tool for practitioners and academics alike Transacting Transition

Keith Brown, 2006 In Transacting Transition scholars and practitioners with first hand knowledge of foreign assistance programs recount what happens when democracy goes local and principles like transparency gender equality interethnic tolerance and cooperation run up against particular realities political agendas self interest and memories of conflict Focused on the former Yugoslavia where the 1990s saw an unprecedented investment of time and energy by a host of international organizations in processes of reconstruction and democracy assistance the contributors offer description and analysis of diagnostic cases of international intervention to explore how the mission and vision of democracy promotion is enacted on the ground Their experiences reflect wider trends in the evolution of U S democracy assistance after the end of the Cold War which has increasingly focused on locally oriented development and civic action as a necessary component of democratic transition In these cases individuals from outside the region found themselves charged with advancing ambitious agendas of social and political change while dealing with the micropolitics of particular situations where for example village solidarity is fractured by old rivalries participation in decision making is habitually restricted by gender or ethnicity or where donors and implementers disagree on the best way forward The book includes an overall introduction and eight chapters focusing on case studies from Kosovo Serbia and Macedonia Each case is described by a participant and put in wider context by a short editorial introduction The book is intended to be broadly accessible to readers and students interested in understanding what is entailed in making grand visions of democratization work Other Contributors Jeff S Merritt Dennison Lane Paul J Nuti Claire Sneed Sally Broughton Micova Clemson Turregano and Chip Gagnon Taming Ethnic Hatred Patrice C.

McMahon,2007-04-05 With its unique emphasis on ethnic cooperation rather than discord this work provides insights into how the international community can help to restrain ethnic conflict in the Twenty First century By examining the construction of ethnic peace in post Soviet Eastern Europe Patrice McMahon accurately describes how the international community worked to quell growing tensions in the East Key was a network of public and private organizations whose goal it was to work in overlapping ways to manage inter ethnic relations which in turn kept ethnically charged clashes far below levels forecast Inspired by the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe CSCE this network included Western governments intergovernmental organizations as well as non governmental organizations Although each actor had its own reason for involvement in this network she highlights the shared principles and overlapping strategies actors used and how their interaction translated into a modern form of decentralized governance This book addresses these issues by considering ethnic relations in Romania and Latvia In so doing it brings to the fore important stories too long ignored by the West and academic research Writing in a direct readable fashion the author connects her subject to a larger review of changes in global governance

Donors, technical assistance and public administration in Kosovo Mary Venner,2016-09-01 This book looks beyond the apparently united and generally self congratulatory statements of The United Nations other major multinational organisations and many large bilateral aid donors to examine what actually happened when they tried to work together in restoring stability and establishing governance in the territory

Peace Operations and Organized Crime James Cockayne,Adam Lupel,2011-05-10 Peace operations are increasingly on the front line in the international community s fight against organized crime this book explores how in some cases peace operations and organized crime are clear enemies while in others they may become tacit allies The threat posed by organized crime to international and human security has become a matter of considerable strategic concern for national and international decision makers so it is somewhat surprising how little thought has been devoted to addressing the complex relationship between organized crime and peace operations This volume addresses this gap questioning the emerging orthodoxy that portrays organized crime as an external threat to the liberal peace championed by western and allied states and delivered through peace operations Based upon a series of case studies it concludes that organized crime is both a potential enemy and a potential ally of peace operations and it argues for the need to distinguish between strategies to contain organized crime and strategies to transform the political economies in which it flourishes The editors argue for the development of intelligent transnational and transitional law enforcement that can make the most of organized crime as a potential ally for transforming political economies while at the same time containing the threat it presents as an enemy to building effective and responsible states The book will be of great interest to students of peacebuilding peace and conflict studies organised crime Security Studies and IR in general

The History Of The Seabees: From The First Advanced Navy Base During The War of 1812, Formation Of The Seabees During World War II To Present Operations , Over 500 total pages Contains the following publications 1 HISTORY OF THE

INTRODUCTION The Seabees of the United States Navy were born in the dark days following Pearl Harbor when the task of building victory from defeat seemed almost insurmountable The Seabees were created in answer to a crucial demand for builders who could fight Using sailors to build shore based facilities however was not a new idea Ancient Egyptians Phoenicians Greeks and Romans did it In more recent times from the earliest days of the United States Navy sailors who were handy with tools occasionally did minor construction chores at land bases After the 7 December 1941 Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the United States entry into the war the use of civilian labor in war zones became impractical Under international law civilians were not permitted to resist enemy military attack Resistance meant summary execution as guerrillas The need for a militarized Naval Construction Force to build advance bases in the war zone was self evident Therefore Rear Admiral Ben Moreell determined to activate organize and man Navy construction units On 28 December 1941 he requested specific authority to carry out this decision and on 5 January 1942 he gained authority from the Bureau of Navigation to recruit men from the construction trades for assignment to a Naval Construction Regiment composed of three Naval Construction Battalions This is the actual beginning of the renowned Seabees who obtained their designation from the initial letters of Construction Battalion Admiral Moreell personally furnished them with their official motto Construimus Batuimus We Build We Fight

Peacebuilding in the Balkans Paula M. Pickering, 2018-07-05 After suffering years of war Bosnia is now the target of international efforts to reconstruct and democratize a culturally divided society The global community's strategy has focused on reforming political institutions influencing the behavior of elite populations and cultivating nongovernmental organizations But expensive efforts to promote a stable peace and a multiethnic democracy can be successful only if they resonate among ordinary people Otherwise such projects will produce fragile institutions and alienated citizens who will be susceptible to extremists eager to send them back into war Paula M Pickering challenges the conventional wisdom that common people are merely passive recipients of peacebuilding projects Instead in Peacebuilding in the Balkans she shows how ordinary people particularly minorities in Bosnia understand elite rhetoric and actively shape reconstruction Pickering's years of fieldwork direct observation interviews and analysis of many surveys has yielded a precise understanding of how ordinary citizens react to and influence peacebuilding programs in their neighborhoods workplaces municipal agencies and other real life social settings The evidence suggests that international efforts to rebuild an inclusive Bosnia will be futile unless they pay sufficient attention to citizens varying ties to ethnic groups indigenous forms of civic activity and the development of nondiscriminatory employment and responsive political institutions Pickering's insights from reconstruction in the Balkans have important implications for peacebuilding elsewhere in Eurasia

Peaceland Séverine Autesserre, 2014-05-19 This book suggests a new explanation for why international peace interventions often fail to reach their full potential Based on several years of ethnographic research in conflict zones around the world it demonstrates that everyday elements such as the expatriates social habits and usual approaches to understanding their areas of operation strongly influence peacebuilding effectiveness Individuals from all over the world and all walks of life share numerous practices habits and narratives when they serve as interveners in conflict zones These common attitudes and actions enable foreign peacebuilders to function in the field but they also result in unintended consequences that thwart international efforts Certain expatriates follow alternative modes of thinking and acting often with notable results but they remain in the minority Through an in depth analysis of the interveners everyday life and work this book proposes innovative ways to better help host populations build a sustainable peace

The International Community and Statebuilding Patrice McMahon, Jon Western, 2012-02-07 This book brings together policymakers and academics to analyse the international community s performance in post war statebuilding projects In the past twenty years statebuilding has emerged as a centerpiece of international efforts to stabilize violent conflicts From the Balkans to Iraq to Afghanistan it has become widely accepted that statebuilding defined as the development of transparent and accountable political institutions stable and sustainable economic structures professional public administrations and civilian controlled security services is essential to the long term stability of post conflict settlements The International Community and Statebuilding brings together senior level policymakers and academics in order to analyse the international community s performance in post war statebuilding projects Filling an important gap in the existing body of work on this topic the contributors explore how international state builders have attempted to negotiate the intersections of multilateralism competing strategic priorities and agendas organizational complexity and domestic politics This book will be of much interest to students of statebuilding peacebuilding war and conflict studies and International Relations in general

The Albanian Question Miranda Vickers, James Pettifer, 2006-10-27 Kosovo s declaration of independence in 2008 and the overt manipulation of this precedent by Russia in its war with Georgia and South Ossetia shortly afterwards has focused the world s attention once again on the Balkans But Albania s role within the region remains little known and less understood In this revised edition of a major work of contemporary history two well known and internationally respected authorities elucidate Albania s place in the Balkans from the explosion of violence in the 1990s which brought the country to the brink of civil war to the present day Since 1997 the Albanian region has been forced simultaneously to come to terms with the realities of a post Communist world and the threat of Slobodan Milosevic s Greater Serbia project Its people the authors argue are involved in the process of national self emancipation the re establishment of free markets and ending of Communist border controls have renewed long dormant cultural and economic links between the Albanian people and the wider region The future of the Albanians in the Balkans is the most pressing issue in the region today a fact which the West must pay close heed to if this long neglected nation is to become a European partner Indeed the authors argue in this rapidly evolving political climate failure to come to terms with the importance of the Albanian question could return the region as a whole to armed conflict Organizing Peacebuilding Anna Herrhausen, 2009 Coordination between different United Nations UN entities has become an issue of increasing concern for scholars and practitioners With the UN taking on ever more ambitious roles in countries emerging from conflict no single unit can master the task of post conflict reconstruction alone However efforts at reorganizing the way the UN works in peacebuilding have not yielded the desired result of ensuring a more effective UN presence To offer fresh inputs for the debate Organizing Peacebuilding looks at coordination from a theoretical perspective It develops a framework for interorganizational coordination and applies it to the UN and to two selected case examples the UN missions in Kosovo and Afghanistan The research suggests that in order to improve coordination the UN should acknowledge its network character and cultivate those social and structural control mechanisms which facilitate coordination in networks
