Interest in the special problems of rural areas and concern with rural development in general have increased substantially throughout much of the world in the years since about 1960 Attesting to this has been the dramatic increase in attention to rural problems in the scholarly and popular literature and by government agencies At first the dominant focus was on development projects and the creation of new jobs It was not long however until other related issues came to the fore in particular the availability and quality of public services essential to achieve economic growth and improvement and having a direct bearing on the well being of rural peoples Most nations of the world have developed plans and launched projects to improve rural public services and narrow urban rural differentials in their provision As one would expect there have been great differences between nations in the severity of problems foci of attention program strategies and their general effectiveness and degree of commitment and effort Given this diversity it seems appropriate to examine and compare rural service problems and efforts to ameliorate them in a sample of contrasting societies Implicit is the conviction that 1 all nations can learn at least something from the experiences of others and 2 by taking an international comparative view of the subject certain generalizations can be established
