Controversies in Exercise Science Thomas Rowland, 2018-10-09 Controversies in Exercise Science introduces a series of selected unresolved issues in the field of human exercise science The common thread to all of these topics is that in their ultimate resolution they offer promise of insights into the essential principles of physiological systems and how these respond to the stresses of exercise Each case study includes an examination of research surrounding each issue the innovative aspect however will be that each of these controversies will be presented in the context of an historical and or philosophical perspective These chapter include topics related to basic exercise physiology sports physical activity and exercise health Underlying each of these debates lie clues which may offer insights into the basic nature of living beings Aimed at both academics and practitioners in the fields of exercise science biology and related sports science disciplines Controversies in Exercise Science provides arguments for both sides of several selected contemporary controversies in the field of exercise science and while no ultimate resolution will be provided the goal is rather to offer the reader sufficient raw material on which he or she might make their own judgement on the matters presented

Sound, Music and Movement in Parkinson's Disease Marta M. N. Bieńkiewicz, Cathy Craig, 2017-01-05 Recent years have brought new insights to the understanding of Parkinson s disease impact of exercise and sound displays in rehabilitation and movement facilitation There is growing evidence that auditory signals in the environment can provide a temporal template for movement and change the mode of motor control from intrinsic to extrinsic habitual to goal directed enabling enhanced motor performance in patients In addition forced exercise rate studies show that exercising at the pace of healthy adults can have potential neuroprotective benefits for patients Many research groups have explored the use of auditory cues such as rhythmical auditory training in improving gait and upper limb movement parameters Cues are usually either intermittent metronome or continuous dynamic sound displays Similarly dance based interventions suggest that patients benefit from additional sensory information i e the temporal structure embedded in music and proprioceptive information from a dancing partner that facilitates movement On the contrary studies dedicated to auditory perception and motor timing report an impaired ability of patients to perceive and synchronise with complex rhythmical structures i e causing an inability to play musical instruments With the growth of modern technology and the increasing portability of hi specification devices such as smart phones new research questions on the design of interventions are beginning to emerge as we strive for more efficient therapeutic approaches In this Research Topic we wanted to bring together top scientists from the movement disorder motor control and sound related studies along with therapists That way we can engage in cross disciplinary and challenging scientific debate about future rehabilitation avenues and frontiers for Parkinson s disease patients
